THE BRITISH are masters of wise compromise. Since the days of Cromwell and Charles the First they have refrained from cutting off anybody's head. They believe in government without axe or dynamite bomb.

Labor outvotes Conservatism; the Conservatives step out and Labor steps in.

The King at heart, of course, as conservative as one of the nine hundred-year-old turtles on the Galapagos Islands, sends for Ramsay MacDonald, typical intelligent British worker, and makes him Prime Minister of the British Empire.

MACDONALD also displays the British give-and-take idea of government. He doesn't say, "Tremble, vile King, for we are in power. Your head shall roll beneath the guillotine blade."

On the contrary he kisses the King's hand as nicely and respectfully as Palmerstone or Disraeli would have done.

The British have a real democracy and it works well.

CLERGYMEN seeking to improve on the Christian religion are invited by Frederick Landis to consider Benjamin Franklin's reply to the president of Yale College, who asked his views on a religious discussion then raging:

"As to Jesus of Nazareth, I have, with most of the present dissenters of England, some doubts as to His divinity; though it is a question I do not dogmatize upon, never having studied it, and think it needless to busy myself with it now, when I expect soon the opportunity of knowing the truth with less trouble. I see no harm, however, in its being believed, if that belief has the good consequence, as probably it has, of making His doctrines more respected and more observed."

Mr. Landis says:

"If Franklin, the wisest American that ever lived, could speak, he would tell both sides among the quarreling clergymen to quit fighting each other and help humanity."

ON ONE newspaper page you read in the first column this:

"Pirates seize a ship and kill the captain. Nineteen passengers are kidnaped." That's in China, where there is one kind of civilization.

Three columns over you read that Miss Isabel MacDonald, daughter of the Labor Prime Minister of England, visited for the first time the magnificent official residence of British Prime Ministers in Downing street and said, "It will do." That's where she and her father will live.

ON ONE side of the world piracy, boats seized, captains killed, violence ruling.

On the other side of the world a Labor cabinet takes control of the greatest Empire that this world has known. Thought and intelligent dissatisfaction comes out victorious ove. conservatism.

JUDGE GARY of the big Steel Company reports that reducing the hours of the steel worker from twelve to eight hours a day has increased the cost of steel 10 per cent. That's encouraging.

Steel consists of three things, ore and coal in the ground, intelligence that directs, and human beings that work. If you can reduce working hours from twelve to eight, cutting off 33 1-3 per cent. from labor, and adding only 10 per cent. to the cost of the product—you have certainly

Billboards Barred From Roads

SIGN 'ADS DOOMED BY NEW RULE

Drastic Regulations Put Into Effect; All Must Go by July 1, 1925

Drastic restrictions in billboard and sign advertising are contained in new rules and regulations put into effect today by the State Department of Public Works, Division of Highways.

These restrictions follow severe censure of the Department at a recent hearing before the Legislative Committee on Legal Affairs, for failure to have put such regulations into effect.

The regulations provide that no billboard, sign or outdoor advertising device shall be painted or affixed on any fence or pole within 50 feet of any public way nor directly on the wall of any building.

300 FEET FROM PARKS.

No advertising will be permitted on any location within 300 feet of any public park, except that the Department may grant permits for the location of electrical display signs on buildings.

No outdoor advertising shall be painted or affixed upon any rock or tree.

No permit will be granted for the location, erection or maintenance of any billboard, sign or other advertising device within a radius of 150 feet from the point where the centre lines of two or more public ways intersect. This provision shall not apply to districts which the Division may determine are of a business character.

MUST HAVE PERMISSION.

No billboard, sign or other advertising device shall be erected, displayed or maintained in any block in which one-half of the building on both sides of the street are used exclusively for residential purposes, except that if the written consent of the owners of a majority of the frontage on both sides of the street in such block is obtained and is attached to the application for a per-

DOCTOR FINED FOR BAKERY THEFT

Pays $25 for Plot to Get $1.55 Worth of Bread and Cake for Twenty Cents

Dr. A. Samuel Wingersky of Sagamore avenue, Winthrop, was fined $25 in Municipal Court today for theft of doughnuts, bread, cake and pie valued at $1.55.

Mrs. Harriet Dunn of No. 32 Washington street, Charlestown, saleswoman in the store where Dr. Wingersky bought his pastry, was also fined $25 for the same offense.

The store, owned by the E. E. Gray Company, charged the physician and saleswoman were in league to reduce the high cost of living at the store's expense.

Witnesses testified they had often seen the physician in low-voiced conversation over the counter with Mrs. Dunn, also that a bottle of malted milk, marked with the physician's name, had been sent in her home.

The floor manager, who had been assigned to Mrs. Dunn's counter on suspicion, saw Dr. Wingersky make his purchase and leave the store. The floor manager, Joseph McFarland, demanded the check from Mrs. Dunn and then raced after the physician.

After an argument the physician, floor manager and Traffic Officer Sullivan went to the executive offices of the firm, and Mrs. Dunn was summoned. She brought with her two checks, amounting to $1.55, which was the price of the pastry purchased by the physician.

She had given him a check for only twenty cents. She admitted picking up the two checks for $1.55 on her way home, hoping thereby to avert losing her job. She has six children.

The physician said he didnt look at the sum on the check, and didn't look at his change after he had paid the check with a $5 bill.

JAIL TERMS OPPOSED BY GOODWIN

Declares Judges Would Not Convict Drunken Drivers if Law Was Too Drastic

Frank A. Goodwin, State Registrar of Automobiles, speaking before the legislative Committee on Legal Affairs today, opposed all bills providing imprisonment for persons convicted of operating automobiles while under the influence of liquor.

He declared that if compulsory jail sentences were provided, judges would fail to convict.

As a result, Registrar Goodwin said he would receive no evidence of drunken driving, and the highways would be infested with intoxicated operators. The only solution, he said, was an aroused public opinion.

During the hearing Registrar Goodwin clashed with Representative W. D. Allen of Worcester, a member of the committee, over the activities of automobile inspectors.

PERSECUTION IS CHARGED.

Representative Allen said autoists in Worcester were prosecuted by the inspectors while driving at a speed of only twenty miles in country districts. He declared the business of one man had been ruined as a result of losing his license.

Goodwin defended his inspectors and told Representative Allen that if he had any evidence of persecution to present it and a hearing would be granted.

He added that a great many cases of drunken driving in Worcester were thrown out by the courts. As a specific instance he named a physician who, he claimed, had been found drunk in his machine. The Worcester police surgeon had pronounced him drunk, as well as two or three policemen, but he was acquitted in court, the registrar said.

LAUDS ROXBURY JUDGE.

Later this same physician was caught in Brighton, operating under the influence of liquor, and his license revoked by Goodwin, he declared.

Registrar Goodwin told of the man who had been convicted three times for operating an automobile while drunk, but had never paid a cent in fines nor served a minute in jail.

Some lower court judges are doing their duty, he stated, and paid tribute to Judge Palmer of Roxbury, who, he said, had sent him fifty-six recommendations that licenses be revoked. He added if all courts were like the district court of Fall River there would be no trouble.

Goodwin declared that in a large

2 SHOT IN BOOTLEG BATTLE

Dry Agent and Alleged Rum-Runner Wounded in Fight During Salisbury Raid

Salisbury Beach, Jan. 24.—A Federal agent and an alleged rum-runner were wounded in a pitched battle here today between a gang of bootleggers and a squad of prohibition officers.

The wounded are:

Prohibition Agent Arthur England, Portland, Me. Bullet wound in left hip. At Anna Drake Hospital, Newburyport.

William Lambers, alleged bootlegger of Lawrence. Shot in both legs. At Anna Drake Hospital, Newburyport.

Lambers, the wounded man and five associates were arrested on the charge of violating the prohibition act. Lambers is under guard at the hospital.

His five companions were taken to headquarters in Newburyport and each furnished $1,000 bail.

The accused gave the names of Thomas Lary, John Horgan, Joseph Venin, Samuel Elber and Steve Venie. They claim to live in Lawrence, but police say some of them belong in Haverhill and others in Salisbury.

The pistol fight, which lasted fifteen minutes, occurred at 1:30 a. m. with the temperature flirting around zero. Rum-runners and dry agents crouched in the dark exchanged pistol shots in lively fashion.

FOLLOWS RAID.

The bootleggers broke out and fled when they saw one of their number drop. The pursuing volley was so hot that finally all surrendered.

The beach battle followed a raid which was part of a general campaign to clean up liquor nuisances at Salisbury Beach.

Two days ago five dry agents came from Maine and negotiated with one of the gang to buy 1,000 gallons of alcohol for $4,900. The dry agents posed as liquor smugglers. They were under the direction of Robert H. Jack, field director of the Maine dry forces.

The time for delivery was to be shortly after midnight. The agents arranged to be reinforced by six men from Massachusetts.

Director Jack and his men kept the appointment and called at a garage owned by one of the men with a motor truck to get the alcohol. A disagreement arose over the price. The dry agents claim the bootleg-

Back Bay Model Wants Damages Because of an Employe's Poor Aim

MARIE D. LIST

MODEL SPURNS KNIFE TO SAVE HER BEAUTY

Marie H. List, artist's model and dancer, of No. 101 Museum road, Back Bay, who is suing the New York & Hudson River Railroad for $20,000 for an injury sustained when she was struck with an orange thrown by an employe of the company, preferred to suffer from a tumor on her breast rather than risk an operation that might have marred her figure.

This testimony was given in United States District Court today by Dr. Martin H. Spellman of the surgical staff of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, who examined the young model about six weeks after she was struck by an orange in 1920.

"I begged and pleaded with Miss List to submit to the operation," said the doctor, "but she was fearful her figure would be spoiled and refused to submit to the removal of the tumor."

Miss List, who, in 1920, was working in South Station for the railroad company, claims that the injury was sustained when a young man, ordered to clean up the office, threw an orange, from which a bite had been taken, in the general direction of a wastebasket, but that it struck her on the breast, the tumor developing.

Dr. Spellman testified that, after examining the girl and advising an operation, she "took electric light

MRS. BLACK OF QUINCY IS FAKE HEALER

Diagnoses Disease Without a Single Question and Sells Suspicious Pills

The Boston American today introduces Mrs. J. J. Black, wife of the Norfolk Downs, Quincy, real estate agent, medical quack and metaphysician whose fraud was described yesterday.

Mrs. Black claims she is a trance medium, a healer and a clairvoyant and "can help you" absent or present.

Mrs. Black is a big woman in the sense of height and weight.

When she walks she puffs, which is quite natural.

When she fakes a trance with a lot of women about her in a circle she puffs again.

This is unnatural, and a raw fake. Mrs. Black puffs then to give the impression that eerie spirits are crawling in and out of her body and leaving her messages for the dupes before her only after she tears them from the mystical callers.

She heaves as though experiencing suffering that is leaving her exhausted; as though the spirits were gagging her, choking her, wrestling with her lest she bravely pass on to a suffering world their secrets.

In this respect Mrs. Black follows the customary rules of the union of fakers who get a soft living out of the so-called "spiritual rackets."

QUINCY QUACK'S WIFE IS BOTH FAKE MEDIUM AND 'DOCTOR'

"NERVOUS BREAKDOWN" DIAGNOSED BY GLANCE

Show a youngster a steam engine puffing on a steep grade and he is magically impressed at its apparent monstrous efficiency.

The puffing of a faker like Mrs. Black produces similar results on the women who desert their kitchens and uncolored existences for an hour with Mrs. Black in what she calls "Spiritland."

So far as this newspaper is concerned Mrs. Black is free to continue bilking women by staging fake trances and selling fake "messages." The American is not concerned in that particular pastime, or Mrs. Black's part in it.

What this newspaper is warning on, and it is backed in its campaign by the Massachusetts Medical Association and every reputable doctor in New England, is for protection of the public health.

Its purpose is to banish for all time persons so devoid of morals and ethics that they will make capital of a poor person suffering a real or imaginary ailment.

BREAKS LAW

The American charges Mrs. Black, Vulture No. 3 with having made a medical diagnosis on a woman investigator. [redacted]

This occurred at the Black home, No. 18 Billings road, Norfolk Downs on January 3, this year at about 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Not only did this faker tell this young woman investigator, literally vibrating with the best of health, that she was suffering a nervous breakdown but she prescribed and gave her pills. And what do you think these pills were?

The same kind of pills, apparently, that her red-mustached husband had a few days before illegally prescribed and given a young man investigator to whom he lied and said he had a disease. Like her husband Mrs. Black accepted payment.

In the cases of the Blacks you have what represents a cancer eating into the body politic in our big cities today and which medical associations are fighting daily to stamp out.

Fake clairvoyants like the Blacks build up a clientele among the ignorant. Not satisfied with the rich living they make by selling these poor dupes fake readings and messages these vultures begin to see them as affected with imaginary ailments.

"You are run down," they'll tell a poor misguided person.

"Couldn't you help me?" that person will ask.

"Well, now we might, although we don't do it as a rule."

Then they'll produce three cents worth of pills for which they charge $1.

Some of these vultures like the Blacks rake in thousands of dollars a year on the sale of their so-called medicines alone. It should be easy for this pair of Norfolk Downs fakirs to rake in $100 weekly for medicaments alone.

Their "spiritual racket" must be a gold mine.

Not only do they milk you when you call but they "Work while you sleep."

They use the United States mails to defraud doing a mail order business of "answering questions" five questions for $1, thereby milking those who would not be able to call.

On the Blacks' business card is advertised — "CIRCLE MESSAGE MEETINGS. ALL PRESENT receive messages from Mr. and Mrs. Black."

These meetings are held Sunday evenings at 8 o'clock and Tuesday afternoons at 3 o'clock as well as Tuesday evenings at 8.

PROBER ENTERS

At these times the Black front door is unlatched and a caller reads on a sign inside the glass "Walk In."

The American's young woman investigator did so on Tuesday afternoon, January 8 last.

She was impressed with the manner in which the Blacks had commercialized the "spirit" so that they could guarantee to have them deliver "all present" a message.

She wondered whatt he messages would consist of. As she obeyed the sign on the first door and opened that portal she found herself looking into the famous Black school room where she saw Mrs. Black facing a bevy of women.

They were for the most part the sort of women you'd expect to find caught in the kind of webs fakers like the Blacks spin.

The door to the school room was ajar—purposely so. It was a glass door, that is, had a full length unfrosted glass panel with a curtain back of it of flowered cretonne.

Mrs. Black was puffing at the moment the investigator entered.

She sat with her hands in an ample lap. Her eyes behind spectacles seemed half closed. Her hair is graying. She looks about 50 years old. She had on a black sweater, a coat sweater, and white skirt.

On one hand were two rings, an old fashioned gold wedding ring, and a diamond solitaire in an old fashioned setting.

As the investigator stepped into the little reception hall she heard Mrs. Black say: "You won't hear from it for I think three years. I see a three anyway. I think its years, although it may be months."

A woman sitting in the front row of style chairs sighed a thank you as this bit of information came to a question evidently uttered as the American's investigator mounted the Black front porch.

Mrs. Black puffed some more. As she did so a young woman dressed in white slipped through the school room door to the side of the investigator. Although Mrs. Black was supposed to be deep in a trance delivering spirit messages to the audience, she called out:

"Let the young woman come in."

"I wanted to see Mrs. Black in private," said the investigator to the woman in white. She nodded and led the way into the meeting.

She motioned the investigator to a seat on a settee in the rear of the class room and sat down beside her.

It so happened the young woman investigator hungered to eat a caramel candy. She had two left of a purchase she had made on her way to Norfolk Downs from Boston. She offered the woman beside her the bag. The woman took a caramel and ate it as the investigator did likewise.

Chewing on her candy the woman at the investigator's side grinned wisely as Mrs. Black said to a woman with a bride's hat and watery eyes:

"Oh you'll find it all right, don't worry."

The woman had asked if she would find a wrist watch she had mislaid. She seemed satisfied at Mrs. Black's assurance that it would be found.

At the right a big woman with a pugnacious look—she sat with a comely little blonde—spoke up.

"Will my husband bother me?" she asked.

The bulk of the lady made the question seem preposterous.

"No he will not," replied Mrs. Black. "He's going to be served with papers, two papers I hear the rustle of them."

"Divorce papers," said the woman, biting it off sharply. "He was served last week."

"Shall I hear from Fred?" asked the blonde at her side.

Mrs. Black puffed at great length then replied: "You will hear from him but I can't tell you when. It's four something, maybe four weeks, maybe four months. I dont think it is years."

The blonde seemed satisfied.

The clock—a little square onyx clock—reached four o'clock. Mrs. Black sighed as its gong chimed faintly from a desk where it faced the audience.

All rose at its first stroke whereupon a woman in white in the front row, left, sprang to her feet hurriedly and said:

"Just a moment ladies, until I take up the collection."

She passed a plate among the women who had come throughout the meeting. Mrs. Black continued to heave but less noisily.

Only the big pugnacious woman with the comely blonde seemed to be acquainted. They talked. Others passed out singly, making their way out onto the front porch unescorted. One asked if "Dr." Black was in. She was told he was not.

A few moments later as Mrs. Black consulted with the lady investigator, "Black the Quack" passed out of the house.

The woman who had taken up the collection vanished with it, presumably up stairs. She was accompanied by the young woman who had greeted the investigator when she entered. They were apparently assistants to the faker.

"I wished to consult you privately," said the investigator stepping up to Mrs. Black as the last woman left the house.

"Sit down and give me a moment. I must rest." She heaved at length as though her journey with the spirits had been most arduous. Finally she spoke: —

READING ABSURD

"I see a typewriter," she said. "You are a typist."

The caller nodded. She has never used a typewriter. "So they tell me," said Mrs. Black. She continued:

"They tell me you are doing well, you are quite happy but for your not feeling exactly right. You are a single girl."

The caller nodded. "So they tell me," said the great medium.

For ten minutes Mrs. Black gave the caller what she describes as a "reading." She sat as she had sat with the circle bit a few minutes before, hands in lap and heaving gently from time to time.

Every time she said "She they tell me," she implied that her dear friends the spirits were producing most magically.

The investigator gave Mrs. Black what in the parlance of the street is known as a thorough "Yessing." She "Yessed" everything the madame of trance told her. The faker replied to nothing of a nature that was either truthful or magical.

Anything she attempted in the present concerning the investigator was so far from the mark it was laughable.

"I would like to get the 4:38 train if I can," said the caller.

Mrs. Black came out of her trance, heaved a bit then sat motionless.

"What of my condition?" said the investigator.

"You are suffering a nervous breakdown," said the woman who advertises herself as a healer. Don't worry though. I can help you. I have medicine right here which will cure you all right."

She arose and puffing a bit stamped out of the room. The investigator heard her climb the stairs to the floor above.

She also heard the 4:38 train leave the Norfolk Downs station at the corner of Billings Road.

Mrs. Black returned with a packet containing two kinds of pills, brown pills and pink pills. She stood by the investigator and poured these pills into one of her hands.

SAME OLD PILLS

"The brown ones," she said, "are to build you up. Take one three times a day before meals, ten minutes before meals. If you forget to take them before you eat then take them ten minutes after meals. The pink ones are for your bowels. Take one each night before retiring and call next week."

Mrs. Black's husband, Black the Quack, prescribed similar pink pills for something quite different.

"What do I owe you?" the investigator asked opening her purse.

"Three dollars," said Mrs. Black. "It is $1 dollars for the reading and $1 for the medicine."

The investigator left and caught the 5:13 train back to Boston. Mrs. Black she had found preying upon poor women who are curious and ignorant; a grasping woman who through her own greediness has placed herself amenable to law along with her husband.

No permit will be granted for the erection or maintenance of any billboard, sign or other advertising device, if said billboard, sign or other advertising device is to be located—

Nearer than 50 feet to the boundary line of any public way.

Nearer than 100 feet to the boundary line of any public way, if within view of any portion of the same, of said billboard, sign or other advertising device exceeds an area of 32 square feet.

REGULATES SIZE

Nearer than 300 feet to the boundary line of any public way, if within view of any portion of the same, if said billboard, sign or other advertising device exceeds a length of 25 feet or a height of 12 feet.

In any event if said billboard, sign or other advertising device exceeds a length of 50 feet or a height of 12 feet; except that the Division may permit the erection of billboards, signs or other advertising devices which do not exceed 40 feet in length and 12 feet in height if not nearer than 300 feet to the boundary line of any public way.

Provided, however, that this paragraph shall not apply to districts which the Division may determine are of a business character.

MUST NOT OBSTRUCT

No permit shall be granted for the erection of a billboard, sign or other advertising device which will, in the judgment of the Division, obstruct the visibility of another sign.

No billboards, signs or other advertising devices shall be located nearer to other billboards, signs or other advertising devices than 50 feet, unless said billboards, signs or other advertising devices are placed back to back. Provided, however, that this provision shall not apply to districts which the Division may determine are of a business character.

All billboards, signs or other advertising devices, except those exempted by Sections 30 and 32 of Chapter 93 of the General Laws, whether erected prior to the adoption of these rules and regulations or not, unless maintained under a permit issued pursuant thereto, shall be removed on or before the first day of July, 1925, unless the Division shall extend the time of such removal but such times for removal shall not, in any event, be extended beyond the first day of July, 1927.

number of cases district attorneys talked things over and fixed them up before they got to the judges.

Referring to the Quincy court, Registrar Goodwin said there had never been a man convicted there for driving while drunk, but that some pleas had been received by Goodwin for leniency.

He said there were three or four police chiefs in the state whose advice he would not take in regard to the restoration of licenses.

Asked if the registry was reducing the number of deaths by automobiles was not due to the State constabulary, Goodwin said he did not care who got the credit as long as the killings were stopped.

B. von Loesecke, representing the Automobile Legal Association, spoke in favor of the petition of that organization calling for imprisonment for persons operating under the influence of liquor.

Representative George Louis Richards of Malden argued in behalf of his bill, along the same lines. Supporters were also heard on the petitions of Charles Symonds, T. J. Horton and Thomas C. Crowther, all designed to curb drunken drivers.

U. S. SENATE IS DEFIED BY SINCLAIR

Declares He'll "Be D——d" if He Plays Part in Game to Injure Fall

By C. F. BERTELLI.

Paris, Jan. 24 (Universal)—Harry F. Sinclair, American oil man, has no intention of obeying the demand of the United States Senate investigators of Tea Pot Dome operations that he return to refute the evidence given by Albert B. Roosevelt.

Sinclair showed an evasive agility in answering questions and declared he "couldn't dream of being subjected to an inquisition." The oil man nevertheless disclosed that he was aware that Senator Fall had borrowed a large sum from Edward B. McLean.

"But it is absurd to allege that it was a bribe," he said. "I do not know McLean. He has never mentioned with me in any way. The money he loaned was paid back more than a month ago.

"If you do not know McLean and deny any personal dealings with Senator Fall, how do you know that the money was paid back," Sinclair was asked.

"What are you, a German?" was Sinclair's illuminating answer.

"Has the Senate ordered you back to Washington to testify?"

"Nobody orders me anywhere," Sinclair answered. "I am here on business. I have already testified until I am tired, and I'll be damned if I will play the game of a lot of politicians who are trying to use me for electioneering.

"However, I will go back in due course, when I have finished my business here and in Germany, and I will be perfectly willing to tell them all they want to know.

"When did Archie Roosevelt resign from your company?" Sinclair was then asked.

"He had not resigned when he saw me off from New York, when he even reserved my stateroom for me. If he has resigned then somebody has got to him with some fake yarn. I always thought he was my friend."

"Do you personally know Senator Fall?" Sinclair was asked.

"FALL FINE FELLOW."

"Yes. He is a fine fellow and one of the best servants the American people have got. This whole thing is a damnable conspiracy to wreck his reputation for the benefit of a political clique."

"Did you deal personally with Fall for Teapot Dome?"

"I saw Fall once or twice, but I did not personally carry on the negotiations with him. He, however, was much impressed with the benefit the United States government would derive from the lease," answered the oil man.

The next question asked of Sinclair was:

"Was the question of financing the naval reserve concession ever mentioned during your visit to Fall?"

"Never—that is an utterly absurd question," he answered.

"And yet the Senate committee is reported to be in possession of evidence that you signed the check for Fall," it was suggested.

CHECK BOOKS OPEN.

"Then all I can say is that they have penetrated a fine mare's nest," answered Sinclair. "My checkbook and other records are entirely at their disposal. It is not true that I have brought them with me."

"What made you book passage on the Paris under another name?" was then asked of the oil man. He answered:

"That is my business, but any insinuation that I left America to avoid testifying is pure bunk. I am no fugitive."

treatments" for several months, at the end of which time her condition was really worse than before.

A number of witnesses, including two sisters of the plaintiff and another model, Catherine Flynn, of No. 1242 Commonwealth avenue, testified that Miss List's physical condition was impaired by the injury.

At the conclusion of the testimony the jury was excused and Attorney Ralph Stewart, for the railroad company, moved that the suit be thrown out of court on the ground that a railroad company is not responsible for poor marksmanship on the part of their employes when they are throwing oranges or doing other things than those for which they are hired.

Obregon War Chiefs See Early End to Latest Revolt

Mexico City, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The Obregon administration at the beginning of the eighth week of revolutionary hostilities finds itself in an "exceedingly advantageous" position, with bright prospects that the "backbone of the revolution will shortly be broken," according to a War Department statement.

A summary of the military situation takes into account only Federal operations ashore. Naval operations are expected to put the finishing touches to the rebel cause.

U. S. STEEL TO PUT MILLIONS IN PLANTS

Huge Construction Program Covers Improvements at Various Plants

New York, Jan. 24—Important construction projects totalling more than $15,000,000, were announced today by the United States Steel Corporation.

The projects include rearrangements and improvements of the Homestead works at Homestead, Pa., for which $6,000,000 has been appropriated; completion of the tube plant at Gary, Ind., to cost $6,000,000, and construction of 140 additional by-product coke ovens at Gary, Ind., to cost $2,000,000.

In making the announcement, E. H. Gary, chairman of the corporation, said:

"These, of course, do not include all the work that is being done or is being contemplated, but they are the leading items."

BENTON BREAKS STATE RECORD; ASKS FOR CUT

Requests Gov. Cox to Take $2,000 Off Appropriation He Requested

Attorney-General Jay R. Benton has requested Governor Cox to cut down by $2,000 the appropriation he had asked for his department.

Governor Cox, in commenting on the request today, said it was the first he had ever received from the head of a State department for the reduction of his expenditures:

"It is also the first I have ever heard of," said the Governor, "and I think it shows that some of the department heads are becoming interested in my effort to reduce State expenses."

The appropriation originally asked for by Attorney-General Benton was $102,000, the same as that of last year, and $9,000 less than the amount spent by J. Weston Allen in his last term.

It is pointed out that this may have some bearing on the fact that prosecution of the blackmail cases was turned over to District Attorney O'Brien by the Attorney-General.

gers demanded more than they had agreed to accept for the truckload.

Finally the situation became so strained that it became necessary for the dry agents to disclose their identity. When they exhibited their badges and declared the gang under arrest, two of them bolted.

The agents gave chase and a general battle ensued. Every man on the scene began pumping his revolver in the dark. They crouched behind anything convenient.

TWO WOUNDED.

While the gun-play was at its height, Prohibition Agents Sullivan and Hall arrived by motor from Lowell with three other agents. They joined the fight and soon had the rum-runners at their mercy.

When the smoke of battle cleared away it was found that one man from each side had been wounded.

With Director Jack were Henry P. Weaver, Edward Lovejoy and Arthur England, the wounded man. Agent W. H. Sullivan of Lowell district was accompanied by John Hall and Agents Welsh and Willey of Lowell and Agent Murphy of Boston.

Raids were recently made on Castle Mona Hotel and the Venetian Garden, and seizures made. A cottage was also raided.

TRAINS TO U. S. CUT OFF BY MEXICANS

Rebels Capture Many Towns in Big Drive; Seize Port on Pacific Coast

Vera Cruz, Jan. 23 (8)—The port of Salina Cruz is in the power of the revolutionists. It was attacked by General Enrique Breua, aided by the gunboat Progreso. The capture gave the rebels complete control from the State of Jalisco southward.

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 24.—An official communication broadcasted from De La Huerta rebel headquarters at Vera Cruz and picked up by the radio station of the Dallas News asserted that a rebel envelopment movement had resulted in occupation of a number of towns stradling the main lines of communication from Mexico City to the north and had resulted in President Obregon's [illegible] suspension of train service from Laredo and El Paso, Texas only.

"As a result of General Estrada's move our troops have occupied Salamanca, Celaya, Valle de Santiago, San Mateo, Acambaro, Maravatian and other points, cutting off railway communication," said the communique. "Confirmation has been received of the report that the garrison at Ciudad Victoria, commanded by Colonel Dias Mercado, has joined our cause and cut off all communication to the west.

CUT OFF U. S. TRAINS.

"General Figuero captured Zacualpan, State of Mexico, taking two officers, 100 enlisted men, 400 many rifles, two machine guns and 12,000 cartridges. The same forces now are attacking Quilapec.

"The forces under command of General Rensria Luviana, aided by citizens, have captured the western part of Michoacan. Morelia now is being attacked.

"Obregon has ordered suspension of train service from Laredo to Mexico City, and from Juarez to Mexico City, because of activity of our troops and the number of towns we are occupying."

Obregon Divides Forces to Close Ring on Rebels

Mexico City, Jan. 24 A.P.).—Directing the western front campaign from Celaya, President General Obregon has divided the Federal forces under General Amaro for the purpose of pursuing rebel columns which virtually have abandoned Guadalajara and which are attempting to protect the country by incursions into various parts of the States of Jalisco, Michoacan and Guanajuato.

The advance against Vera Cruz is proceeding under direct command off Marines, with Secretary of War Serrano directing operations from Federal headquarters at Puebla. Offensive operations are being directed from Tampico toward recovering petroleum districts under rebel control.

made a clear saving of 33 1-3 per cent.—at least, according to the bookkeeping of the Angel Gabriel.

Long hours are extravagance. The work a man does, mental or physical, with the tail end of his vitality, is expensive work: it costs too much.

IT IS announced that President Coolidge will veto any tax bill carrying a higher surtax than 25 per cent.

In time of war any tax is just. When the government says to the poor man, "I will take your life for a dollar a day," and takes it, it may well say to the rich man, "I will take half or three-quarters of your income."

BUT THE WAR is over. Excessive taxation discourages new enterprises that employ men at labor and develop new wealth.

If this country knew as much about collecting taxes as they know in England, a 95 per cent. surtax on the biggest incomes would produce an amount of money that even our exorbitant spenders couldn't spend.

THE "disaster" bird is back in Danzig. It's the silk-tailed thrush. The superstitious say that it has not been seen in Danzig since 1914, when the war began. They fear trouble.

THERE wouldn't be any trouble with only the silk-tailed thrush to fear. But there is the grasping mind that finds in victory only an opportunity for more war. There are hatreds that follow defeat. There is Emile Zola's "Every man has within himself a hog asleep," and the old Eastern statement that a monkey and a tiger live in every man.

The greed of Zola's sleeping hog often wakes up. The vanity of the monkey and the ferocity of the tiger are what start wars and keep them going.

Dont blame the poor silk-tailed thrush.

LOWELL CLEW IN KIDNAPING OF GIRL FROM JERSEY SCHOOL

HUNT CHILD STOLEN BY MOTHER

Police Seeking Strange Woman Who Fled With Caroline Middleton, Aged Seven

North Bergen, N. J., Jan. 24.—Police here have been asked to broadcast an alarm for Caroline Middleton, seven, of No. 221 Thirtieth street, Woodcliff, who was called from her classroom in the Robert Fulton school by a strange woman of whom the police have no description.

The girl's grandfather, George S. Middleton, with whom she lived, gave the alarm. His son Frank, who lives in Belleville in the province of Ontario, Canada, brought the child to New Jersey a year ago when he separated from his wife in that town.

Yesterday afternoon the telephone bell in the Middleton home rang. A woman's voice was on the line.

"Caroline is all right," it said. "Don't worry."

"Where is she?" the grandfather asked.

"With me, in Jersey City."

"Where about?" was Middleton's next question.

"None of your business" the unknown woman answered, and hung up.

LOWELL CLEW TRACED.

Chief Marcy of the North Bergen police, when notified of the girl's disappearance with the strange woman, remembered that several months ago he received a communication from Thomas R. Atkinson of the Lowell, Mass., police asking him to investigate to ascertain if Caroline Middleton was in his territory.

The letter also recounted alleged facts concerning the details of the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Middleton, the child's parents. According to Atkinson, the couple married ten years ago in Belleville. Later the child Caroline was born.

Frank Middleton left with the first contingent of Canadian troops sent to the battlefront in France. When he returned he resumed his home with his wife. There was an estrangement. A year ago Middleton, it is alleged, took the child away and brought her to Woodcliff.

MAY BE WITH MOTHER.

Police here were told by George Middleton that the letter was probably sent on the advice of Mrs. Frank Middleton's brother who lives in Lowell. The letter asked Chief Marcy to see if the child was at George Middleton's home or at the home of Frank Middleton's sister, Mrs. Arthur Jones, who also lives in Woodcliff.

Police are of the opinion that the child may have been taken by its mother.

CAN'T COLLECT $25,000 OWED RELIEF FUND

Backers of American Jewish Drive Admit Many Pledges Appear to Be Worthless

The refusal of many subscribers to pay their signed pledges has caused the backers of the American Jewish Relief Committee for Sufferers from the War, which conducted a campaign for funds early in 1922, to turn the matter over to their attorney, Maurice Tobey of Boston, and there will be a hearing of the case in the Municipal Court in February. About $25,000 is unpaid in Greater Boston.

The backers of the drive say they personally paid out large sums of money, expecting all pledges to be paid shortly after the close of the campaign.

The total subscription throughout the country was $17,000,000, only $14,000,000 of which has been paid, leaving $3,000,000 outstanding.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—Plans for a colony in Palestine to be called Chicago are being projected by Chicago Jews. It is planned to raise $2,000,000 for the project which would be a model agricultural community. The money would be raised, under the leadership of Max Shulman and Dr. S. Melamed.

BARES OFFER OF BRIBE TO ROB MAYER RUM

Caretaker Sansom Says $15,000 Was Mentioned to Him Last Fall

Great Barrington, Mass., Jan. 24.—Suspected of complicity in the robbery of liquor valued at $100,000 from the Summer home of Charles Mayer of New York, in Stockbridge, Abraham Kats of New York and Max Beckerman of Brooklyn were arraigned here today and held in $500 each on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

The men told the police they were taking the lumber-laden truck on which they were arrested from Brooklyn to Stockbridge, but had been delayed by running out of gasoline.

Great Barrington officials who returned today from White Plains, where five men and a liquor-laden truck were arrested in connection with the robbery, said they had learned that both trucks were owned by Samuel Polosky of Brooklyn.

William H. Samson, caretaker on the Mayer estate, who was overpowered by the bandits in yesterday's raid, told the authorities he was approached last December by a man who offered him $15,000 to help him in stealing liquor from the vault.

Three of the five men arrested as they drove a liquor laden motor truck through Bedford Village, N. Y., were identified today by Samson.

He picked the men out of a line of prisoners at the county jail in White Plains. They gave their names as George Brew, Thomas Foley and John Mally of New York. The other men arrested on the truck but not recognized by Samson are Michael Duffy of New York and Robert Lyman of Red Bank, N. J.

All five of the prisoners are held on charges of violating the Sullivan law, as all were armed.

The Russian leader's high intellect in life was indicated after death by the deep convolutions, according to experts who examined and weighed it.

Surprisingly Small Compared With Those of Lord Byron, Daniel Webster, Napoleon and Other Famous Men in History

Nicolai Lenine's brain, at death, weighed 47.24 ounces, avoirdupois, according to dispatches from Moscow containing an announcement by Professor Abrikosov who performed the autopsy and embalmed the body of the dead Premier.

"Examination showed that Lenine's brain weighed 47.24 oz. troy. During life the brain was heavier. The lines of the preserved part of his brain were deeply cut, indicating an individual of high intellect. The brain is still under examination.

"Lenine's sickness was known to medicine as arterio-sclerosis, being a condition under which some arteries were stopped up, resulting in a gradual dying of the cell fibres.

"The origin of this sickness is usually innate and frequently inherited, and its progress, despite external improvement, is unavoidable.

"Lenine's father died at the same age and of a similar stroke."

SURPRISINGLY SMALL.

Lenine's brain weight, 47.24 ozs., was surprisingly small when compared with those of notable Europeans and Americans whose brains have been weighed.

The deep fissures, or deep cuts, indicated high mental activity, however.

The Soviet leader's brain was very small in weight compared with that of his compatriot, Ivan Turgeniev, Russian poet and naturalist, whose brain, the heaviest yet weighed, was 70.8 ounces at death.

Previous to the examination of Turgeniev's, the heaviest ever recorded, was that of an unnamed patient, a bricklayer, who died in a London hospital in 1848. It was more than 67 ounces.

JOHN L.'S LARGE.

That man was illiterate, but was said to have possessed a considerable amount of mental energy and a remarkable memory. He was a drinker, the report added.

Baron Cuvier, the French anatomist, had a brain weight of 64½ ounces. The brain of Lord Byron, English poet, was an ounce less. Daniel Webster, the American statesman, and the great Napoleon had the same skull circumference, 23½ inches, and same brain weight, 53½ ounces.

Oddly enough, the circumference of the skull of John L. Sullivan and the weight of his brain were exactly the same as those of Napoleon and Webster.

Abraham Lincoln's brain was examined and reported to be not above the average, but as some of it had been destroyed by the bullet that caused his death it could not be accurately weighed.

CROMWELL'S HEAD.

The weight of Oliver Cromwell's brain has been given as 78.6 ounces to 6¼ pounds, but no report has been accepted as reasonably accurate.

Cromwell, it is said, must have had three heads, as one skull is preserved in the museum at Oxford, another is in possession of a private individual, while still another was for a time exhibited publicly in London as that of Cromwell.

Fissures may indicate extraordinary mental activity. Beethoven's brain is described as having convolutions or folds twice as numerous and fissures twice as deep, as those in ordinary brains. The marks on Lenine's brain have not been fully described.

Following is a list showing the comparative weights of the brains of noted men:

	Ounces.
Ivan Turgeniev, Russian poet and naturalist	70.9
Benjamin F. Butler, American soldier, lawyer	67
Daniel Webster, American statesman and orator	53.5
Walt Whitman, American poet	45.2
Dante (called "one of world's five greatest men), Italian	51.3
William Makepeace Thackeray, English author	58.5
Louis Agassiz, American naturalist	53.5
Lord Byron, English poet	63.5
George Leopold Cuvier, German naturalist	64.5
Napoleon I., French soldier, Emperor	58.5
Schiller, German poet	63
Ludwig II., German King (died insane)	47.7
John Abercrombie, English physician	63
Average for notable Americans, including Canadians	53.5
English	52.2
French	51.3
German	49

REED TO CONSIDER PRESIDENTIAL RACE

St. Louis, Jan. 24.—United States Senator James A. Reed will meet his friends here Saturday. It was announced today, and probably will decide definitely whether he will make a campaign for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Sen. James Reed.

The Democratic State Committee meets here Monday and many of Reed's friends are expected to remain over for this convention.

PLAN TO RESTRICT SALE OF FIREARMS

Armed bootleggers and dope users are the particular class of lawbreakers the police seek to reach through firearms bill, the legislative Committee on Public Safety was told today. Police Commissioner William son of Boston, with State police and police officials of several cities and towns, appeared in favor of bills which would make the purchase of firearms more difficult for irresponsible persons.

SEARCH FOR RUM IN HOMES MUST HAVE WARRANT

U. S. Court of Appeals Says Prohibition Law No Better Than Any Other Law

Philadelphia, Jan. 24.—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today decided that searches of private homes by prohibition agents without search warrants are illegal, even though the dwelling may be under the guard of police. Evidence secured in this manner cannot be used against the house owner.

The decision was handed down by Judge Davis and set aside the conviction of Leopold Legman, Newark, N. J., and his sentence to thirty days in the Essex County Jail.

Judge Davis cautioned the lower courts to be watchful of "unreasonable searches and seizures," declaring that the protection given by the fourth amendment to the constitution to citizens applies strongly to the administration of prohibition laws as to any other laws.

After the explosion of a still in Legman's home police visited the place and several prohibition agents later appeared and found liquor, they say.

Legman was granted a new trial.

GOULD'S STOCK SOLD SECRETLY, SISTER SAYS

Mrs. Shepard Testifies George Dominated Family In Father's Estate

New York, Jan. 24.—Her brother, Frank J. Gould, offered to buy the Jay Gould estate's vast holdings in the Missouri Pacific railroad in 1911 to calm the fears of his sister Helen, now Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, that their oldest brother, George, was about to dispose of secretly, Mrs. Shepard testified today at the referee's hearing into the accounting of the estate.

Mrs. Shepard added that she approved Frank's plan, but that George and Edwin turned it down. Yesterday Mrs. Shepard testified that George, as she had feared, had secretly disposed of the stock in 1913 and 1914. Mrs. Shepard's appearance at the hearing today was unexpected for she was at the point of collapse when adjournment was taken yesterday. She had been on the stand for three hours.

George Gould's influence, she declared today, dominated the conduct of the estate from 1892 until 1914.

"I would say," she testified, "we all looked up to George as the head of the family. He had been down in the office with our father so long. His expressed wishes carried the greatest weight with me and I very rarely rebelled."

Asked if she could recall any proposal in which George was successfully opposed, she mentioned his desire to dispose of the estate's Manhattan elevated stock.

"I don't know why it didn't go through," she said. "I know I was opposed to it. Perhaps he changed his mind."

BRITISH EXPORT FEARS GROUNDLESS

London, Jan. 24.—Robert P. Skinner, United States consul general here, in addressing the annual meeting of the American Chamber of Commerce announced that the value of British goods exported to the United States increased from $353,600,000 in 1922 to $396,000,000 in 1923. He said: "Only one year ago we were hearing lamentations on every side, respecting the anticipated effect of the new tariff. We were assured the tariff would diminish British exports and would make more difficult the discharge of British obligations in the United States. Some were persuaded the tariff would break up British trade altogether."

Hunters Find Family in Old Schoolhouse; Father Hurt, Mother Is Demented

St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 24.—A family of six, mother, father and four children, were found starving and almost frozen to death in an old schoolhouse at French Hill, by hunters.

The children were found in a pile of straw while the father and mother were moving feebly about the room to keep warm.

What furniture there was in the schoolhouse had been burned. The father, with an injured leg, was unable to cut firewood.

The mental condition of the mother was such that she could not care for her little ones. It is said she destroyed the heavy clothing of the children.

The St. Albans Chapter of the Red Cross was notified and the family has been cared for.

Suicide Uses 50-Ton Hammer to Cruh His Head

London, Jan. 24.—The suicide of John Albert Faulkner, owner and manager of one of the largest machinery plants this part of England, is bewed to have been the strange in all history.

Faulkner, who was nearing seventy, was as proud a boy over the gigantic tohammer he had recently instld.

The hammer, whi weighed all of 50 tons, was srated on the principle of a re driver, striking a single blothat completed the hammerlpart of every job. It was n by electricity.

Returning fromhelr noonday luncheon, Faner's employes found him id, with his head crushed on t anvil. He had taken advan of their absence to go to thachine, raise the hammer, plnits head on the anvil and ps the button.

BARONESS BACK TO REGAIN HER CITIZENSHIP

Former Miss Carrington of Boston Married Baron Von Horn in 1904

New York, Jan. 24.—Baroness Von Horn, formerly Virginia Carrington of Richmond, Va., and Boston, arrived on the Columbia from Naples today to resume residence in her native land after twenty years' absence.

"I am glad to be back," she said. "I'm as excited as a schoolgirl. I want to feel again the amazing rush and bustle of American life and to regain my American citizenship as soon as I can."

She expects to go first to Boston, where she lived before going abroad, to become a bride, and later to Virginia, "to renew acquaintance with old school friends—if they haven't all forgotten me."

Virginia Carrington, who was numbered among the noted Southern beauties of her debutante days, was married to Baron Von Horn in Berlin in 1904.

SUIT DISCLOSES COMEDIAN EDDIE CANTOR GETS $3,500 A WEEK

PAYS AGENT 10 P. C. OF SALARY

Hart Rolls Up Fortune in Commissions Until "Blacklisted" by "Trust," He Says

New York, Jan. 24.—Eddie Cantor collects $3,500 every week for his part in "Kid Boots."

Bert Wheeler gets $600 a week in the Follies.

Max Hart is paid 10 per cent. commission on salary by each of them.

And they are glad to pay it, they said in the Federal court, because they cheerfully credit Hart with helping them to build up their acts and place them with profit.

Eddie Cantor

Bernard Granville was another star who added his praise to the values of Hart as a theatrical booking agent.

Hart made money, his books produced in court showed. His net vaudeville agency business profit was about $31,000 in 1916, about $34,000 in 1917, netted about $35,000 in 1919 and in 1920 jumped to the comfortable profit of $70,363.05 net.

THEN THE CRASH.

Then came the crash which started all the legal proceedings now in progress before Judge A. N. Hand. In November, 1920, Hart ceased to enjoy the privileges of booking his more than seventy vaudeville acts with the United Booking Office. He describes it as a trust in violation of the Sherman act and is suing to recover $2,250,000.

If a verdict is returned in his favor and the United Booking Office is declared a trust, Hart will be given damages three times the sum of the actual loss he shows he has sustained by operation of such a trust. That is the statutory penalty.

Hart declares he was blacklisted by the Keith-Orpheum combination of vaudeville operators, E. F. Albee, Martin Beck and others, because he wrote to the Shuberts, rivals of the Keith-Orpheum concern, in 1920 that one of the latter's vaudeville acts should be looked over by the Shuberts as a good prospect for a Shubert review.

FEES LOST OR CUT.

"I lost the booking of seventy vaudeville acts which I had had for years because of this blacklisting," Hart testified. "The actors and teams I had been booking kept right on working just where they were, but I could no longer book them in Keith-Orpheum houses. Some of the acts I owned still paid the 5 per cent. booking fee to the United Booking Office, but I received only one-half of that. I was told I had been blacklisted for disloyalty in making suggestions to a rival to take one of the U. B. O. acts."

EDNA PURVIANCE GRILLED IN SHOOTING

CHARLIE CHAPLIN'S LEADING WOMAN ON STAND IN DINES CASE

Panorama of court-room in Los Angeles during the preliminary hearing of Horace A. Greer for the shooting of Courtland S. Dines, wealthy sportsman in Dines' apartment on New Year's day. Edna Purviance (on the witness stand) was with Mabel Normand in Dines' apartment when he was shot. Greer was Mabel's chauffeur. There is conflicting evidence as to just exactly where Edna was when Dines fell wounded. She insists she was in the bathroom, but Mabel testified her companion was in Dines' bedroom. At the right of Greer are shown Dist. Atty. Woolwine and assistant prosecutors and the detective in charge of investigating the shooting.

BLOOD-STAINED CLOTHES MAY BARE CRIME

Bundle Found Near Roadside in Dover May Reveal a Murder Mystery

Evidence of a crime is seen by State police in a bundle of blood-soaked pieces of men's shirts and women's undergarments, found in Dover by George Hastings of Boston and Dover.

Four mens shirts had been cut to bits, doubtless to conceal their former ownership, State Detective Michael H. Fleming reported. The shirts were of expensive quality.

In addition, the bundle contained bits of silk and linen cloth which, pieced together, were found to make women's garments.

An attempt had apparently been made to remove all labels, for on the six garments there was but one which bore a trademark name and a laundry mark. One of the men's shirts bore the mark of a Boston department store.

Hastings saw the clothes, drenched in blood, lying by the roadside on Chestnut street, between Dover and Needham. The river is not far from the spot. Hastings notified his attorney who telephoned the State police.

Detective Fleming and Chief of Police MacKenzie of Needham went to the scene and found that the bundle had apparently only been exposed to the weather for a short time. They noticed the unusually fine texture of the goods. The woman's garment of linen was marked with hand embroidery.

Two of the men's shirts had a pink stripe, a third had a black stripe and the fourth was plain white. The torn garments were not bound with string or wrapped in paper and appeared to have been tossed out of an automobile in a heap shortly before found by Hastings.

The spot where they were found is in a wooded section, and there are no houses nearby. Woodchoppers working in the vicinity could give no clews, and State police here are awaiting word from police in this State or Rhode Island, in the expectation that a crime, as yet undiscovered, will be reported soon.

New Labor Cabinet Gets on Without Armed Guards

London, Jan. 24.—The special armed detectives who formerly accompanied cabinet ministers on their travels in Great Britain or abroad have been withdrawn from duty, says the Daily Mail. They will be assigned to the members of the new cabinet if a request for their services is made, but none has been received.

Inventor Upson Dead

Thompsonville, Ct., Jan. 24.—Lyman A. Upson, eighty-three, president of the Thompsonville Trut Company since 1890, and formerly prominently connected with the carpet industry here, died suddenly today. He was the inventor of several appliances used in carpet manufacture.

200,000 IDLE BECAUSE OF RAIL STRIKE

Food and Coal Shortage Beginning to Be Felt in Some Quarters of Britain

London, Jan. 24.—The deadlock in the railway strike negotiations was unbroken today.

Managers of the railway companies issued a letter insisting upon enforcement of the wage awarded the locomotive engineers and firemen by the National Wage Adjustment Board.

The new Labor cabinet is still seeking a basis for agreement.

Two hundred thousand workers were idle today as a result of the strike.

Some centres are beginning to feel the pinch of food and coal shortages.

MANY FRENCH TO ENTER FILENE'S PEACE CONTEST

Applications for Rules of Prize Plans Coming in at Rate of 100 a Day

Paris, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The French peace plan contest for prizes totaling 200,000 francs, which was inaugurated a few days ago, promises to attract much attention.

The committee sent out its first preliminary notices little more than a week ago and already applications for the rules of the contest are coming in at the rate of more than 100 daily.

The entire amount for the prizes is being donated by Edward A. Filene of Boston, who, during his recent trip in Europe arranged with M. Bourgeois for holding the contest under the latter's patronage. Senator Henry De Jouvenel is the active organizer of the contest, and Gustav Rouger, the French author and poet, is the acting secretary-general of the committee.

M. Rouger said today the committee's hopes had been more than fulfilled by the response from the very first day, testifying the committee in feeling that the French people in the provinces were thinking deeply about peace. By far the greatest number of the applications come from the inhabitants of the devastated regions. All classes of society are represented—laborers, professors, doctors, factory workers and the like.

All the participants must be of French nationality. The first prize is 100,000 francs, the second 30,000 and the third 20,000.

The committee announces that Mr. Filene intends to support similar contests in England and Italy, after which it is hoped to conduct an international contest, open to all nationalities.

Bombay—Ardali, leader of the bandit "murder gang" which has been terrorizing the Afghan frontier, has been killed.

Marseilles (I.N.S.) — The French freighter Montrose, with a crew of fifty aboard, which has been missing since January 3, when she sailed from Oran, was given up for lost today.

Vienna.—A deputation of 100 cripples, fifty of whom brandished their crutches, stormed the Parliament for overdue pensions. After two hours of speechmaking the demonstrators were assured their grievances would be redressed.

Madras—The newspaper Hindu today published a good will message from Premier Ramsay MacDonald of England. It warned the Indian socialists that the London government "would not be cowed by threats of force."

Paris.—The Parliamentary elections will be held in May according to a decision reached by the Cabinet.

MANY WOUNDED IN BIG GERMAN STRIKE

Elberfeld, Germany, Jan. 24.—Disorders are occurring in connection with the strike of 60,000 textile workers in the Elberfeld-Barmen region. Conflicts between strikers and police have occurred at Werden, Lennep and Barmen, with firing by both sides, resulting in the wounding of numerous persons and many arrests. Textile hands have refused an offer of overtime after the eight-hour period. Fifteen thousand metal workers and 8,000 men in the building trades also are out.

CALLS ON G. O. P. TO THROW OUT PINCHOT

Snyder, the State Treasurer, Comes Out With a Violent Attack on His Governor

Harrisburg, Pa. Jan. 24.—State Treasurer Charles A. Snyder today declared he would oppose Governor Pinchot as one of the seven delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention and "would appeal to all Republicans of Pennsylvania to defeat him at the polls."

His reasons for the opposition were that the governor "is not a Pennsylvanian in spirit." That he "is not a Republican," that "as governor of the commonwealth he was cast into office, through a political storm," and that in the convention, if elected, he will bring into that forum an intrigue and a blue sash as will reflect only indignity upon the other delegates and make Pennsylvania the ridicule of its sister States.

Snyder declared that of thirty Governors, Governor Pinchot is the only one "neither born nor reared" in Pennsylvania and that his criticism of President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon "shows that now he has no national Republican affiliations."

He asserted that the Governor "has been unfaithful to every political trust and to his chief," and that "while serving under Taft he was 'boring from within.'"

RECOVER BODIES OF TWO LOST OFF TACOMA

Captain and Radio Men on the Stranded Cruiser Perished at Posts During Big Storm

Washington, Jan. 24.—Recovery of the bodies of Captain Herbert G. Sparrow and Radioman Solomon, aboard the wreck of the cruiser Tacoma at Vera Cruz, was reported to the Navy Department today by the commander of the destroyer flotilla which arrived yesterday off the Mexican port.

The bodies of the two other radiomen, who were killed on the ship during the norther which wrecked her, have not been found.

Six other men, including three commissioned officers, were injured during the storm, the message added, none of them seriously, one of them is chief boatswain's mate, J. F. McCarthy, No. 890 Spring street, Brockton.

The Tacoma is damaged beyond possibility of salvage operations, in the opinion of wrecking experts now at Vera Cruz. Small arms and ammunition and the breech locks and sights of the ship's guns have been removed.

Captain Sparrow and the three radiomen lost their lives in a gallant attempt to maintain radio communication with shore.

S. C. Gilbert Dead

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 24.—Spencer C. Gilbert, a director of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, died at his home here today. He was seventy-three.

WANTS MERGERS OF RAILS BY SYSTEMS

Washington, Jan. 24.—A bill designed to stimulate voluntary consolidations of railroads into a limited number of systems, with competition preserved as fully as possible, was introduced today by Senator Cummins of Iowa, ranking Republican member of the Interstate Commerce Committee and one of the authors of the present transportation act.

AUTOS BIG FACTOR IN JAP QUAKE DAMAGE

Washington, Jan. 24.—Continued study of seismological data will enable scientists to send out warnings of earthquakes and volcanic eruptions in time to save lives, Dr. Thomas A. Jagger, Jr., director of the government's Hawaiian volcano observatory, said today. Dr. Jagger, who has been in Japan conferring with scientists in regard to the September earthquake, said the tremendous automobile congestion in Yokohama and Tokio at the time of the quake jammed the narrow streets so that fire apparatus could not get through, and hundreds of gasoline filling stations and gasoline tanks in the automobiles, provided fuel for innumerable fires.

"It was this condition as much as the earthquake itself which made the Japanese disaster the biggest of all similar horrors on record," said Dr. Jagger.

Former Amy Lee Finds Use For All Her Spare Hours, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

MRS. CHARLES C. COLT has discovered a novel task to keep her nimble fingers busy during spare hours.

Dainty Amy Lee's wedding to Charles C. Colt, solemnized last month, was one of the Winter's most important nuptials. A long line of shiny limousines wound their way around the First Parish Church of Brookline for the occasion, and all the notable connections of the Lee family were "among those present."

Now that young Mr. and Mrs. Colt are established in their cozy little apartment at the foot of Beacon Hill, the former Amy Lee finds that there are several hours when there's really nothing much to do.

Susan A. Lee

So she's bethought herself of something both useful and entertaining to do. She makes a very adorable little white hat trimmed with all kinds of gay looking woolen flowers. The hat is made in all shapes and sizes, and the flowers in all manner of colors.

Finding something useful to do seems to run in Amy Lee Colt's family, for her younger sister, Miss Susan Lee, spends much of her time doing kindergarten work.

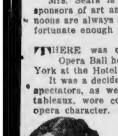
SOME hundred odd guests thronged the drawing rooms at No. 12 Arlington street for the delightful musicale which Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears gave yesterday afternoon.

The artist for the occasion was Mary Freund, whose selections were generously applauded.

Mrs. Sears is one of Boston's most notable sponsors of art and music, and her musical afternoons are always considered a rare treat by those fortunate enough to be bidden to them.

THERE was quite a Boston interest in the Opera Ball held by the Junior League of New York at the Hotel Astor the other evening.

It was a decidedly colorful affair. The host of spectators, as well as those taking part in the tableaux, wore costumes, all depicting a grand opera character.



Mrs. Slater Welles

There were eight living pictures from familiar operas, including "Tosca," "Carmen," "La Boheme," "Der Rosenkavalier," "Salome" and "Madame Butterfly."

Taking the role of "Susuki" from the last named opera was Mrs. Slater Welles, as she now calls herself since her divorce from B. Sumner Welles. Mrs. Welles, the one-time Esther Slater of Boston, is the older daughter of Mrs. Horatio Nelson Slater who, of course, was in the fashionable throng of onlookers.

Also taking part in "Madame Butterfly" was Grafton Winthrop Minot of Boston and New York who, as a coolie, lighted "Cio-Cio-San" and "Susuki" down the stage steps with a real lantern.

Society Notes

MRS. WALTER H. SEAVEY and Miss Eleanor Seavey of Hamilton have returned to the Hotel Somerset from a brief visit to New York. They plan to remain at the Somerset for a few weeks.

Messrs. Francis Peabody, Henry G. Vaughan, B. Nason Hamlin and Phillip Wrenn, all of Boston, were out playing golf together on the links of the Everglades Club at Palm Beach.

Mrs. John Caswell of "Round Plain Farm," Beverly Farms, will spend the remainder of the chilly months in Bermuda.

The Rev. and Mrs. William H. Dewart and their family plan to stay for the rest of the Winter at "Crowhaven," their home in Manchester-by-the-Sea.

CORONATION OF MARION DAVIES TONIGHT

Ceremony Making Film Star Queen of Movies to Be Brilliant Spectacle

New York, Jan. 24 (Universal).—Miss Marion Davies will be crowned queen of the movies in New York tonight in the gold room of the Astor Hotel, and Rodolph Valentino will be hailed as king.

The occasion for which Miss Davies and Mr. Valentino furnish the high lights will be the fourth annual ball of the Theatre Owners' Chamber of Commerce. It comes at the end of a ten days' voting contest put on for the purpose of determining the people's favorite stars of the silver sheet.

Marion Davies

The coronation will be the climax of the affair, and it will be led up to by a pageant and a processional. All of the participants therein will be costumed with a brilliance appropriate to such an occasion. While the procession is moving toward the throne the lights in the hall will be turned out and direct beams from "Sunlight arcs" will be turned upon the costumes.

Six pretty girls will act as ladies in waiting to the queen, and six knights will attend the king. Before the royal pair two little pages will carry the crown.

Eddie Cantor will place the coronet on the head of Miss Davies, and Fanny Brice will perform a similar service for Mr. Valentino. Many movie celebrities will be present and will make themselves known.

The coronation will be preceded by an elaborate entertainment in which prizes will be awarded for the prettiest girl in, and prettiest out of, the theatre. A prize will also be given to the girl with the smallest foot.

John D., Jr., to Learn Golf if His Cash Holds Out

New York, Jan. 24.—"If my money holds out," John D. Rockefeller, Jr., told the members of the men's Bible class of the Park Avenue Baptist Church, "I eventually will learn to play a pretty good game of golf."

All he has learned of the game so far, he said, is "to hit the ball once in ten times," and "never to pick up a lost ball until it has stopped rolling." Another necessity, he finds, is to wear a snappy suit that gives the proper atmosphere and never to appear in a gymnasium suit.

Neither his father nor professional instructors, he said, had been able to introduce him to all the ropes.

KNOWS WOMAN BY HER ANKLES HE PROVES

Witness Against Her in Divorce Case Passes Unique Test in Court

Newark, N. J., Jan. 24.—The man who could tell whether a musical comedy was any good after the curtain had risen two feet had nothing on Dr. Frank L. Crane of Montclair.

Testifying in behalf of Falda M. Ruffridge in the latter's suit for divorce from Mrs. Cornelia Ruffridge, the Montclair dentist said he had seen Mrs. Ruffridge through a curtained window at a time when she was in the presence of the co-respondent, Robert H. Spahn.

The doctor admitted, however, that he didn't see the woman's face.

"How did you know it was Mrs. Ruffridge, then?" he was asked.

"By her ankles," replied Dr. Crane. He added that he had seen Mrs. Ruffridge in a bathing suit and he had particularly observed, at that time, certain characteristic contours.

The court thereupon submitted Dr. Crane to a test. He had Mrs. Ruffridge and another woman sit at a distance with their backs turned but their ankles exposed. Dr. Crane identified Mrs. Ruffridge instantly.

COL. MAJOR ACCUSED OF RANK PREJUDICE BY BRIG.-GENERAL COLE

'TREATED 26TH MEN LIKE DOGS'

Boston Brigadier and Y. D. Judge Advocate Fight Plan for Promotion

Colonel Howard B. Anderson of Memphis, Tenn., judge advocate of the 26th Division, and Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole, also a former officer of the 26th Division, were the principal witnesses before the Senate committee on military affairs at the hearing of the proposed promotion of Lieutenant-Colonel Duncan K. Major to the rank of colonel in the regular army.

Colonel Anderson declared there had been much ill feeling toward National Guard officers on the part of regular army officers in the A. E. F. He declared that although he could not cite specific instances of prejudice on the part of Major, he knew that Major's coming into the division was soon followed by ill feeling.

As judge advocate Anderson testified, he had his own private spy system' which served to let him know what took place within the division and enabled him better to fulfill his duties.

General Cole testified that Major was prejudiced against National Guard officers and cited the removal of Major Hammond as a case in point.

"The case of Major Hammond of my regiment, who was relieved can be put in the record," General Cole said. "Major Hammond had a splendid record in the front line.

"He came out of a particularly grueling experience north of Verdun; he and his battalion were pretty well tired out. I was sent over or I went over of my own accord and inspected his billets. I found them in not as good a sanitary condition as they should have been. I spoke to him about it and ordered it en corrected.

"Over my head and over the head of his colonel, he was relieved of command. I do not say that the sanitation of his camp was perfect, but I do say this, that he was entitled to consideration.

"This was in November, 1918, and considering his seven months' service in the front line and considering the exhausted condition of his troops coming out at that time, he should not have been relieved from command on account of sanitary conditions, which was more or less of a slight matter that time.

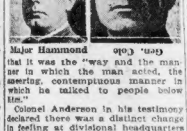
"TREATED LIKE DOGS."

"The other case is the prejudice against men of the 104th infantry. There will be evidence here as to the remarks that Major made to the officers of the 104th infantry. I very closely watched him in his work and in talking to the men, and perhaps it is a manner that he cannot help, but I would not allow a man to talk to a dog the way he talked to enlisted men in that regiment, in his mere manner of corrections and getting after them.

"He does not know how to talk to a man beneath him in position. Giving him power, he does not know how to use it. In the same way, in talking to a man that he knows has power over him, he is just exactly the opposite.

"Gentlemen, that is all I care to say."

Pressed by Senator Fletcher for illustrations of the language used by Major, General Cole answered that it was the "way and the manner in which the man acted, the sneering, contemptuous manner in which he talked to people below him."



Major Hammond [illegible]

Colonel Anderson in his testimony declared there was a distinct change in feeling at divisional headquarters after Major was assigned to the 26th Division.

"There was a decided change in atmosphere," he declared in reply to a question of General Logan. "In about three days everybody climbed into a hole and stayed there —and seemed scared to death."

Other former Yankee Division officers aroused by the testimony offered before the Senate committee which has to an extent reflected on the character of the 26th Division, called attention to the rating of the division by the battle participation board, which places it first among all National Guard divisions and second in the entire A. E. F. only to the 1st Division, Regular Army.

According to the record, the 26th Division was under enemy fire 208 days and the 1st Division 240 days. The 26th Division took part in four major offensives: The Champagne-Marne; the Sime-Marne; the St. Mihiel and the Meuse-Argonne. The division captured 3,148 prisoners and suffered casualties totalling 11,325.

FORD MADE 2,200,682 VEHICLES IN 1923

Detroit, Jan. 24.—The Ford Motor Company made 2,200,682 automobiles, trucks and tractors in 1923—775,059 more than in any previous year, according to production figures for the year, announced today.

Of the total, 1,816,485 automobiles and trucks were made in this country and 178,474 in foreign plants, including Canada. To the total of these are added 101,474 tractors and 7,233 Lincoln cars.

The figures were coupled with an announcement that the Ford company expects to exceed this figure in its 1924 production and that it plans to start early this Spring on its program of 10,000 cars daily.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO BERLIN FOR EXPERTS

Paris, Jan. 24.—Experts inquiring into Germany's financial and economic condition are going to Berlin Monday, probably by special train, as the commissioners and their staffs of experts, secretaries, stenographers and attendants number more than 100.

Owen D. Young had a turn in the presiding officer's chair when the first committee met today. Gen. Charles G. Dawes and several of the other delegates were absent, since the matters under discussion concerned especially the members of the sub-committee on money. Premier Poincare received Dr. Schacht, head of the German Reichsbank, this afternoon.

GUARD OFFICER IS KILLED BY 12-LB SHOT

Lawrence, Jan. 24.—Arthur D. Smith, first lieutenant of Company B, 103d Infantry, M. N. G., was killed in the presence of hundreds of persons in the State Armory, on Amesbury street, when he was struck in the abdomen by a twelve-pound shot being put by William Laughlin, a private in the same company.

Four minutes after he had been hit by the heavy iron ball, Lieut. Smith died, just as an ambulance arrived to take him to the Lawrence General Hospital.

$20,000 SUIT ON 'SCREECHING' THROWN OUT

Harrison, Me., Summer Resident Loses on Her Protest Against Hub Diva

Portland, Me., Jan. 24.—Complaint made by a Summer resident of Harrison that her vacations have been spoiled and the value of her estate injured by the "screeching" which emanated from the Bristol studio for voice culture fell as flat as a flounder when it was revealed that the student whose warbling annoyed the complainant was none other than Marie Sundelius, of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Mrs. Elizabeth Melosh, the plaintiff, asked in the local court for a judgment of $20,000 against Professor Frederick Bristol, presiding genius of the Bristol Memorial Studio and one of the leading voice teachers of America.

Professor Bristol, now in his eighty-fourth year, is famous as the instructor of Nordica, Nellson, Eames and Fernsted, in the early days of these celebrities.

PROFESSOR CONGRATULATED.

When the jury brought in its verdict the aged teacher was overwhelmed with congratulations. Mrs. Melosh had "nothing to say." She "would not dignify" the suggestion that she wanted to be the "boss" of Harrison by even discussing it.

The controversy was said to have split the town almost in two, one side holding that the continuous performances at the studio are neither song nor music but a constant running of high notes which was "enough to drive a body mad" while the other side maintained that it was a pure delight to listen to the great, the near great and the merely promising pupils of M. Bristol as they trs-la-la'd on a Summer's day.

PICTURES LOOK HEALTHY.

Mrs. Melosh alleges in her suit that the "noise" emanating from the Bristol studio in Harrison, which is located next door to her summer home, caused her health to be undermined.

The defence introduced pictures of Mrs. Melosh and her daughters to show that the women were still in good health despite the "screeching" from the studio.

The defence testified that the Meloshes had set themselves up as the rulers of Harrison. Witnesses for the plaintiff, on the other hand, characterized Mrs. Melosh as Harrison's most public spirited citizen and greatest benefactor.

"There was no screeching or howling at my studio," Professor Bristol said when he took the stand. "Pupils who strike the wrong notes don't stay long with me. The pupil whose singing has annoyed Mrs. Melosh is Marie Sundelius of the Metropolitan Opera Co."

Kathleen Whelan of Back Bay Wrote Best Essay in Legion Contest

Miss Kathleen Frances Whelan, eighteen years old, of No. 43 Batavia street, Back Bay, has been awarded a gold medal and a scholarship in any woman's college, valued at $750, in recognition of being one of the winners in the national essay contest conducted by the American Legion on the subject, "Why America Should Prohibit Immigration for Five Years?"

She was one of three Massachusetts residents to receive the prize, and will enter college next Fall. The medal will be presented to the young lady by Commander Dr. Arthur E. Austin of Post 117.

500,000 LOTTERY TICKETS SEIZED

Half a million Bay State Lottery tickets and 10,000 books and manifolds were seized by Sergeant Healey of the Dudley street police station, a squad of patrolmen and agents of the Watch and Ward Society in a raid on the home of Everett W. Flint, on St. James street, Roxbury.

Flint was not at home at the time of the raid. A warrant has been issued.

FUR BANDITS IN HUB ARE LED BY GIRL

Downtown and Brighton Robberies Are Laid to Her Gang

Boston, like Brooklyn, N. Y., has a bobbed-haired bandit "queen."

The girl, who is being sought by the police, is said to be young and attractive, with a wealth of blonde bobbed hair. She wears expensive clothes and wears them well.

She and the robber gang whose "queen" she is, are alleged to have stolen $3,500 in two silk and fur robberies, and to be responsible for numerous other robberies.

Dunham & Company, No. 76 Summer street, was robbed of $1,500 in choice furs. Police believe the girl bandit and her gang were frightened away, a pile of expensive coats having been found on the floor.

The residence of Barney Kravit, No. 78 Kilsythe road, Brighton, was robbed of $2,500 in furs, silks and jewelry. The gang made their escape through the rear just as Mr. and Mrs. Kravit entered by the front door.

Police do not hesitate to attribute these two robberies to a girl bandit. They also suspect her of an attempt to rob the Weegman Fur Store at No. 328 Broadway, Chelsea. Patrolmen McGreavy and Flynn arrived in time to arrest Edward A. Rutherford, No 44 Mt. Vernon street, Somerville, who is alleged to have smashed the front window of the store with an iron bar. Rutherford was held in $1,000 bail.

FOUR KILLED AS AUTO TURNS OVER

Kansas City, Kan., Jan. 24.—Captain Robert T. Hayes, Mrs. Hugh Broadhurst and her daughter, Ethel, were killed when a motorcar in which they were riding turned over on the Victory highway, four miles west of here.

GREAT CHANGES PROPOSED FOR VETS' BUREAU

Senate Committee's Bill Much More Liberal to Disabled Soldiers

Washington, Jan. 24 (I.N.S.).—The slashing of "red tape" from the care of America's disabled World War veterans, by a complete revision of all relief laws, will be recommended to Congress early next week by the special Senate Committee which investigated the United States Veterans' Bureau.

If enacted into law, the committee's proposals will completely liberalize the government's attitude toward disabled veterans. They were prepared by Senators David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, David I. Walsh of Massachusetts and Tasker L. Oddie of Nevada, all experienced lawyers. The major changes, already agreed upon by the committee, include:

Elimination of all "red tape" from the hospitalization of veterans by authorizing the admission to veterans' bureau hospitals of all veterans suffering from wounds or sickness.

Shifting of the "burden of proof" from the veteran to the government on practically all claims for compensation.

Authorizing "contact" officers to safeguard the rights of veterans who claim compensation.

Increasing the amount of compensation to disabled veterans under certain circumstances.

Reduction of compensation where veterans are able to earn salaries from outside sources.

The most important change will be the proposal to hospitalize all sick or wounded veterans. Under this recommendation, every veteran would have the right to free hospital treatment at the nearest veterans' bureau hospital. He would not have to prove his sickness of service origin. It would also admit thousands of shell-shocked and tubercular veterans who are unable to provide exact medical proof that their condition was due to army service.

The committee also will recommend a liberalization of compensation laws by avoiding the rigid method of compensation whenever there is a "reasonable belief that the veteran's disability was due to service. This change will materially benefit thousands of tubercular veterans whose claims for compensation were denied under existing law because their army records failed to show a notation of the gas attack.

COAKLEY TRIAL DATE TO BE NAMED TODAY

The time of trial of Daniel H. Coakley and William J. Corcoran, on indictments charging perjury, is in doubt, owing to a statement made by Assistant District Attorney Arthur D. Hill that he was not prepared to proceed at present.

D. H. Coakley

W. J. Corcoran

Judge Elias B. Bishop tentatively assigned the cases for Monday next with the understanding that if Mr. Hill should decide he will not be ready on that date counsel for the defendants shall be informed of that fact by five o'clock this afternoon. Then a further postponement will be granted.

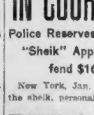
Bonds and Cash Stolen

Thieves entered the home of John Sparks, No. 21 Day street, West Somerville, and took three liberty bonds valued at $250, and $100 in cash. Entrance was gained by forcing a window.

WOMEN FIGHT TO SEE VALENTINO IN COURT CASE

Police Reserves Called When "Sheik" Appears to Defend $165 Suit

New York, Jan. 24.—The lure of the sheik, personally, caused police reserves to be rushed to the Third District Court. When reports that Rudolph Valentino was to appear as joint defendant in a suit for $165 the feminine stampede started, and those who couldn't get into court churned around the sidewalks, refusing to heed police directions to see the sheik another day.



Rudolph Valentino.

Rudy appeared to say that he never promised to pay the Roman Bronze Company, Greenpoint, $165 for a bronze statue which, it was said was used by the Italian newspaper Il Popoli in a contest.

After much argument, Rudy finally agreed to pay half and so did the newspaper publishers. The company got big-hearted and sliced the price to $150. Rudy peeled off some clee now bills from an obese roll, sighed deeply, and fought his way to his su onobile. Normalcy settled over Williamsburg.

Athens—Premier Venizelos told the National Assembly that a royal restora is no longer necessary in Greece but that there should be a plebiscite to determine its fate.

BOYS ASK MAYOR FOR FLYING SCHOOL

That interest in aviation has constantly grown since the opening of the airport at East Boston, was indicated by a petition to Mayor Curley from East Boston boys that a flying school be started for instruction of would-be pilots. The letter was turned over to Porter H. Adams, chairman of the Flying Board, who said he would consult the Boy Scout masters in an effort to start such a school. The boys signing the petition were: Guy R. Tolles, Percy W. Cheverli, Arthur Telles and Frank Pangiale.

CITY WATER IODINE BALKS HOME BREW

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 24.—The home brew industry in Rochester is imperiled by the wholesale dosing of the city water supply with iodine in an attempt to eliminate goitre, complaints received at the Rochester Health Bureau indicate.

The iodine in the water renders it difficult for the home brewers to obtain a satisfactory "head" on their product. The effect of the iodine on the yeast, in the fermentation process, it is said, prevents the home brew from "rising."

Home brewers are searching for means to overcome their difficulty.

ASH TRAINS TO BE TRIED IN ROXBURY

Ash trains will make their first appearance in Boston early this Spring. Each train will be made up of a string of low slung cars pulled either by a small tractor or by a truck, which itself could carry a load of ashes.

The new departure in refuse removal will probably have its initial trial in Roxbury. Then if Public Works Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke finds the method satisfactory he will undoubtedly extend its scope to other districts of the city.

SEIZE 22,200 QUARTS FROM RESTAURATEUR

New Orleans, Jan. 24.—Prohibition officers raided the home of Peter Fabacher in one of the most fashionable residential districts of the city and, in nine trucks, hauled 22,200 quarts of fine wines, whiskies and champagne to the custom house.

SEX BAN STIRS THERAPIST TO 3 EX-MAYORS

Declares Profession Is One of Real Science; Names "Fitz" as One of Patients

The difference between a "mechano therapist" and a "masseur" was explained to Health Commissioner Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, by two score men and women, who protested a recent ruling by the Board of Health, forbidding massage of a man by a woman, or vice versa.

Mrs. Augusta Lord Heinstein of No. 270 Bowdoin street, Dorchester, a mechano therapist, named many prominent Bostonians as her patients.

"FITZ" HER PATIENT.

Among them were former Mayor Fitzgerald, the late Mayors Hibbard and Green, John C. Kiley, Judge Logan and Dr. John T. Bottomley. Mrs. Heinstein stated that, "Dr. Bottomley was told by Mr. Fitzgerald that I was the best in the city." The others had endorsed her work, she said.

She explained that her work was all done by appointments, and that her patients are referred to her by members of the medical profession. She had been employed by insurance companies and with one exception while thus employed, all the patients were males.

She explained that mechano therapy is a method of treating diseases of the body by means of manipulation of the muscles and nerves, with a view of inducing free circulation of the blood and lymph and an equal distribution of the nerve force.

DOES HOSPITAL WORK.

She told of her work at the City Hospital and produced an indorsement from many prominent physicians in the city as to her ability.

She urged that hair dressers, manicurists and all beauty parlor workers, together with the Turkish bath rubbers, and vapor bath givers, be classified as apart from mechano therapists.

Another masseur who attended the hearing was Mrs. Mary Gallagher, attendant nurse to Dr. Baronian, whose office is located at No. 48 Dover street, South End.

Mrs. Gallagher, who has been a widow for nearly 10 years, has a son nineteen years old living with her at her Dover street home. She says that as a result of the action of Dr. Mahoney in ordering the permits of Boston masseurs suspended it has seriously interfered with her source of income.

Like Mrs. Heinstein she said all of her work was done by appointments and that she only attended to those recommended by physicians.

Attorney Albert A. Gleason, representing the petitioners, outlined to Dr. Mahoney the work of the newly formed association known as the Massachusetts Mechano Theraphy Association, who were practitioners of the healing art and massage, placing emphasis on the fact that none of them represent vapor bath work and that the organization was given birth to protect the interests of the members and the public at large.

He stated that his clients were not masseurs or masseuses but scientific manipulators, who assist nature in eliminating abdomalities.

Dr. Mahoney took the case under advisement.

SOUTH END WIFE DRINKS POISON

Despondent because her husband is a heavy drinker, Mrs. Rebecca Kataraki, forty, of No. 53 Oswego street, South End, attempted suicide today by drinking poison. Passers-by saw her open her bedroom window and scream "Fire." The firemen arrived, but the only fire they found was in Mrs. Kataraki's stomach, caused by the poison. At City Hospital it was said she would recover.

SALEM BOY OF 5 KILLED BY AUTO

Robert A. Rundlett, five, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Rundlett, 2 Waite street, Salem, died today at Salem Hospital of a fractured skull, received when hit by an auto driven by Charles W. Houghton of Lynn. The child's mother was at the hospital at the time visiting another son who was operated upon, when her second child was brought in. When she recognized him she nearly collapsed.

WOMEN IN CRIME INCREASING RAPIDLY

Washington, Jan. 24 (C.N.S.)—Women of the East commit more Federal crimes than women of the West, Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, declared today.

"The bootleg liquor and narcotic traffic is responsible for the larger number of offenders in Eastern States because it is in this area that the illicit whiskey and drug traffic has its main strongholds," Mrs. Willebrandt said. "New York city, New Jersey and Pennsylvania are the strongholds."

Mrs. Willebrandt said crimes by women under Federal statutes are increasing at an alarming rate.

"The bootleg and drug traffic, using women as 'blinds' or 'tools,' are responsible for an increase of about one hundred per cent. in feminine infractions of Federal laws the past year," she said. "Growth of law defiance by women has quickened efforts in Congress to provide a Federal prison for women."

"Widespread participation by women in conspiracies to circumvent the drug laws is increasing at such a rate as to occasion a feeling of alarm among authorities," she said. "An investigation conducted by the Department of Justice revealed that narcotic drug addiction is now a greater cause for women's downfall than at any other period in the country's history."

'QUEEN' FIGHTS TO SAVE SON OF 'KING DAVID'

Police Believe Fugitive Purnell Will Return to Bedside of His Dying Offspring

Benton Harbor, Mich., Jan. 24 (I.N.S.).—At the House of David where the shadow of death creeps closer, a lone woman, Mary, queen of the colony, is fighting a mother's battle to save her son, Coy Purnell, victim of an incurable malady, that has been made more grave by the ravages of pneumonia.

Tossing in his delirium, young Purnell calls frequently for his father, Benjamin Purnell, founder of the colony, king of the faithful, and now a fugitive from justice with a price put on his head by the State of Michigan.

There are rumors that Benjamin is hiding somewhere close by, knows of the condition of his son and will not abandon him to a lonely death.

Coy has always been a favorite with his father. For years the father has supported him and his family, even though the son never embraced the Israelite faith.

There is much speculation on what effect Coy's death would have on the colony. The Israelite faith does not admit of death, nor does it recognize it. Some believe that if death creeps into the chambers of Benjamin and snatches the son of the King that the faith of his followers will be severely shaken.

In cases where members have died their bodies have been turned over to an outside undertaker and carted away, unmourned and unwept.

CHARGE FEVER QUARANTINE IS BROKEN

Residents of North Ward, Wakefield, are up in arms as many have refused to send their children to school on account of the open violation of a quarantine for scarlet fever placed on a family in which four of the five children are stricken with the disease.

Formal complaint was filed with Dr. Ernest D. Tuttger, president of the Board of Health, but no action has been taken and the doctor has nothing to say.

Residents claim the mother of the stricken children freely visits among neighbors and that on Monday evening the father attended a Parent-Teachers' meeting at the Hurd School and during the meeting occupied one of the pupil's seats. There are eleven cases of scarlet fever in the one section, seven of them being within a radius of 100 yards.

The men complaining to the health authorities were Robert A. Parker, Roland G. Whittett, Ralph L. Bunge, Clarence T. Phinney, L. G. Lord and Frank A. Tredinick.

MacDONALD TO CREATE FOUR LABOR PEERS

New Premier Is Denounced by Lady Astor on "Miss Bondfield's Post

London, Jan. 24 (I.N.S.).—Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald will create four Labor peers to represent the Labor party in the House of Lords, it was learned today.

The new Labor Premier was engaged today in studying policy with his colleagues. He may intervene personally in the railway strike tomorrow, unless there is a move towards peace.

Lady Astor, speaking at a political meeting, denounced Premier MacDonald for failing to confer a full Cabinet post upon Miss Margaret Bondfield, woman labor leader and member of Parliament.

"This shows that prejudice against women exists just as much in the Labor party as anywhere else," declared Lady Astor.

EX-COP PROMISES TO PAY FOR BAD CHECK

Frank H. Mealey, former Boston patrolman, was tried in the Lynn Court, before Judge Kiely, on the charge of larceny of $65 by means of a worthless check. The case was continued one month on promise of Mealey to make restitution. The plaintiff was Ernest Dullea, a motorman, who vouched for Mealey when the latter cashed a $65 check with Asa Galeucia, a Lynn storekeeper. The check was found worthless and Dullea made good.

LENINE'S SPIRIT TO GO ON, SAYS TROTZKY

His Teachings Remain Immortal and Will Guide Workers, He Believes

Tiflis, Soviet of Georgia, Jan. 24 (I.N.S.)—Leon Trotzky, Commissar for War in the Russian Cabinet and colleagues of Lenine, declared today that the death of Lenine was "a terrible blow," but will not stop the execution of the Communist policies inaugurated by the late leader.

Leon Trotzky.

Trotzky was compelled to come to southern Russia by ill-health. It was here he received news of Lenine's death.

"Lenine is no more," exclaimed Trotzky after receiving a telegram from Moscow. "Medicine proved unable to accomplish what millions of hearts passionately demanded.

"Lenine is dead.' These words strikes one's consciousness like a huge boulder falling into the sea. The ripples will be felt throughout the world.

WORKERS ORPHANED.

"Workers' minds everywhere will refuse to accept the fact that Lenine is no more. The enemy is still terribly strong. The road we must traverse is long. History's greatest work is still undefined.

"Lenine was necessary to the world's working class, perhaps as nobody before in the world was necessary.

"The Bolshevist party is orphaned, the working class is orphaned—this is the first feeling which struck one upon receiving news of the master's death.

"How will we go forward? Will we be able to find the road? Will we lose the way? These are questions which agitate our souls.

"Lenine is gone, but Leninism remains immortal. Lenine's teachings, his work and his example live amongst us in the party he created. They live in the first workers' state the world has ever known. They live in the hearts of men who worked with Lenine and loved him.

FIND THE ROAD.

"A fraction of Lenine survives in each of us. It is our better part. I believe and hope that, through collective effort we will find the road which Lenine pointed out to us and follow it to the goal.

"Tomorrow—perhaps the day after tomorrow—may be a week or a month later we will be asking ourselves if it is possible that Lenine is no more. Let the sting which our hearts feel upon receiving Lenine's death serve as a reminder that we have work to do—important work.

"Let it instil in our minds the responsibility which rests upon us. Let it make us worthy of our teacher and master.

"In our mourning and our grief let us close our ranks and strengthen our hearts for the new battle which awaits us."

Owing to illness Trotzky will not be able to attend the funeral Saturday.

WIDOW SOUGHT TO LOOK LIKE FLAPPER

Romance of Mrs. Ingalls Broken Because She Wanted to Compete With Youngsters

Fitchburg, Jan. 24.—It was the desire of Mrs. Elizabeth Ingalls of Taunton to compete with young girls for the affections of John Bennett that caused the romance of the aged widow and the young wrangler to be wrecked, according to Bennett.

"Betty" Ingalls

John Bennett

Bennett expressed a desire that the widow, who, he says, is in hiding from newspapermen in Providence, return the marriage license to the city clerk of Taunton.

"She is a creature of impulses," said the twenty-six-year-old teacher-wrestler. "She doesn't know her own mind. She told me she wanted to bob her hair and have her face manipulated to look young like those of the girls she accuses of stealing my affections from her.

"This desire on her part did not please me. I wanted her to look natural. She misrepresented my absences from her and accused me of going out with painted dolls. She received numerous letters from people who claimed to have seen me in her machine with other girls."

Bennett declared in a new planning to write an autobiography, "as the earnest solicitation of many of my friends." Meanwhile, he declared, he is looking for a real job to this him over until he has completed and sold the classic work.

CAN'T DALLY IN CITY HALL AFTER 6 P. M.

City Hall employes who have been in the habit of asking a friend or two to spend a couple of hours with them after the regular closing time can't do it any more.

Superintendent of Public Buildings Fred J. Freeland issued orders that everyone must be out of the hall at 6 p. m. except those on official business.

POLICE LOOK FOR RUM FIND SMALL ARSENAL

Patrolmen Duggan and Hennebery of the East Boston station, suspected to find liquor in a house they raided on Bremen street. Instead they found a 45-calibre pistol, a 32-calibre revolver, both loaded, and a box of cartridges in a room on the second floor. The small arsenal is said to belong to Antonio Annese, twenty-six years old, who admitted to the police that the room where the guns were found belonged to him. He was arrested.

FOUR FAMILIES FLEE FIRE IN LAWRENCE

Lawrence, Jan. 24.—Fire in a tenement house on Elm street early today drove four families to the streets in their night clothes. Fireman Thomas Cavanaugh was injured and several others overcome by smoke. The fire started in the Masar wholesale confectionery store. The store and its contents were completely destroyed. The building was damaged to the extent of $15,000. Thomas Cavanaugh, the injured fireman, was badly cut by falling glass.

TOWNS TO SHARE LIQUOR PROFITS

Edmonton, Alta., Jan. 24.—Urban and rural municipalities of Alberta will probably receive a $5 per cent share of profits from the government sale of liquor under the new provincial liquor act, Premier Greenfield announced today. The new liquor act is now being prepared for submission to the Legislature.

SERUM TO CONTROL SPREAD OF MEASLES, SAYS DR. MAHONEY

CITY HEALTH HEAD DECLARES DEATH TOLL WILL DROP

Boston will soon be able to control the spread of measles, the same as it has typhoid fever, smallpox and diphtheria, by the use of serum.

Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Health Commissioner, stated today that Dr. James A. Keenan, medical inspector, and Dr. Victor M. Safford, Deputy Health Commissioner, had been working for several months to perfect a serum that would give immunity to those persons who had been exposed to measles.

The success of their efforts are said to be highly pleasing. The experiments are still in progress.

WILL CUT DEATHS.

Within a short time Dr. Mahoney expects to make public the result of the labors of Drs. Keenan and Safford. It is believed that the annual toll in lives, which is enormous, especially in the pre-school age group, will be materially reduced.

Dr. Mahoney said:

"Measles is a serious disease and its toll in lives is enormous, especially in the pre-school age group. Fortunately in some diseases like typhoid fever, smallpox and diphtheria we have protective agents which are given to prevent these diseases. But until recently little has been done along the lines of prevention in measles.

"Sufficient data is now at hand to prove that at least a temporary immunity is conferred by the use of serum of persons convalescent from measles given to those who have been recently exposed to that disease.

"This has been done in both Europe and America, and during the last year the contagious disease hospitals under the jurisdiction of the New York City Department of Health have utilized this method of preventing measles.

"The results obtained have been so favorable that it is expected that soon a serum will be available as a protective agent for young children who have been in contact with measles.

DESCRIBE TREATMENT.

"It is necessary in order to be effective that the serum be given within four or five days of the invasion to the disease. Measles is highly contagious during the catarrhal stage, which is present three or four days before the typical eruption of measles is manifested, therefore, this is the time when other children in a family who are contacts should receive this protective treatment.

"The blood that is used to produce the serum is obtained always from disease free convalescent donors about a week after the typical measles rash has developed. The serum is tested and certified as to its purity and non-infectiousness by the latest scientific laboratory methods before it is certified for use.

"The technique of administration is comparatively simple. Any good glass syringe, with a suitable needle such as is used in giving antitoxin, is all that is necessary. The serum must be injected intra-muscularly. The skin should be cleaned with alcohol or painted with iodine. Usually there is no reaction following the treatment. The probable protective treatment is between two and three months.

Be Better Looking — Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

"USE MULSIFIED"

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful of what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months.

FIRST BRITISH WOMAN IN CABINET POST

MISS MARGARET BONDFIELD, M. P.

When Premier J. Ramsey Macdonald round-ed out his new Laborite cabinet he named Miss Bonfield Under Secretary for Labor. She is the first woman ever to have a place in the British government. She was greeted with cries of "Good Old Maggie" when she took her seat in the Commons after her appointment. Lady Astor took occasion in a speech to denounce the Premier for failing to give Miss Bondfield full cabinet rank instead of an under secretaryship and declared: "It merely shows that prejudice against women is as prevalent in the Labor party as it is elsewhere."

TWO HULL MEN MISSING AT SEA

The fate of two Hull young men who embarked Sunday in Hull Bay in a 20-foot power boat and were adrift during the height of a fierce gale, is a mystery.

Residents of Hull have seen or heard nothing of the two men or the craft since their departure, and they are believed to have been either lost or picked up by a larger vessel.

The missing men are Walter Brine, twenty-four years old, of No. 15 J street, Hull, and Arthur Irwin, twenty-six years old, of Main street, Hull.

They were seen to embark in their power boat in Hull Bay, announcing to friends that they were bound for Boston.

Louis Brine, father of one of the missing men, said that he has not heard from his son since his departure. He declared he would report the matter to the Atlantic Coast Guard station and ask that search be conducted.

John Irwin, father of the other young man, thought that the young men might have been picked up by a vessel along the coast during the storm. Brine is a graduate of St. Anselm's College.

SENATOR WALSH WOULD ABOLISH SHIPPING BOARD

Washington, Jan. 24.—A bill to abolish the United States Shipping Board and to establish a new agency for development of an adequate American Merchant Marine was filed here today by Senator David I. Walsh.

The bill would create a United States commissioner of shipping under the Secretary of Commerce.

His job would be to establish trade routes the world over.

American ships would be leased to private operators who agreed to keep these lines operating, otherwise the government would operate them exclusively.

Senator David I. Walsh and Congressman Louis A. Frothingham today joined hands here in an attempt to preserve the ancient privileges of the First Corps Cadets of Boston, a military organization as old as the government itself. Both filed an identical bill to enable the corps to wear its historic uniform and trappings and to continue to have an officer with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. Horace Z. Landon at present holds the job.

A recent order of the War Department held that the corps is no better or worse than any other military company and entitled to no more or less privileges.

NEED LABOR'S O. K. ON BRITISH OIL BASES

London, Jan. 24.—The Admiralty's extensive plans for establishing oil depots throughout the world must be sidetracked until the attitude of the Labor government toward the project is ascertained. Even though the Baldwin government was committed to the plan to the extent of 4,292,000 pounds, the approval of the Labor government will be needed before larger amounts can be obtained. Three of the depots were completed last Spring—at Hongkong, Jamaica and Portland—but the four ocean fronts, Australia, Canada, South Africa and Iraq, are still without naval oil fueling bases.

MASS MEETING OF PHONE GIRLS CALLED

The executive board of old Local 1-A, of telephone operators, has called a mass meeting for Friday night in Tremont Temple to consider plans for reorganization.

Many operators in Local 1-A have expressed a wish to secede and join the Telephone Operators' Division, Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, headed by Miss Julia O'Connor.

Local 1-A is now headed by Miss Rose Collins, who succeeded Miss Annie Molloy, who led those that opposed the recent strike. Miss Molloy is reported ill.

CITY PHYSICIAN IS CRITICALLY ILL

Dr. George H. Schwartz, examining city physician for the pension board, the transit commission and the school board, is dangerously ill at the Massachusetts General Hospital with a throat affection. For three days specialists have held out little hope for his recovery, it was reported.

SHAWMUT BANK TO HAVE NEW BRANCH

Announcement has been made of plans for establishment of a branch of the National Shawmut Bank in the Park Square Building, to be known as the Arlington street office.

Work of fitting the quarters for occupancy will be started at once with the hope of completing the alterations not later than June 1.

$50,000 LOSS AS STORE BURNS IN CHELSEA

Traffic on Car Line Tied Up; Three Cities Battle Blaze

Traffic on the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway was tied up for two hours while firemen from Chelsea, Everett and Revere battled a $50,000 fire at Everett avenue and Broadway, in the heart of the Chelsea business district.

Fire Chief David M. Hudson of Chelsea severely wrenched his right arm and narrowly escaped serious injury when, at the height of the fire, he fell through an open bulkhead leading to the cellar of the burning building. He caught a timber with his arm and was rescued by firemen.

MERCHANDISE BURNED.

An overheated boiler in the cellar is thought to have started the fire. A large stock of merchandise, belonging to the New York Bargain Company, tenants of the first floor, was burned.

Smoke pouring from the basement windows was noticed by a civilian, who gave the alarm.

After fifteen minutes of strenuous work without making much headway, Chief Hudson requested aid from Everett and Revere.

POLICE CALLED OUT.

Hundreds of persons poured from motion picture theatres, club rooms and homes and rushed to the fire in such numbers that police reserves were called out to hold the fire lines.

The New York Bargain Company suffered the heaviest loss, $20,000. Other tenants sustaining losses from smoke and water were: Melvin Breath, lawyer; Dr. Louis Gould, Alpha Liberal Club; Simon Cohen, lawyer; Harry Shapira, lawyer; Jacob Ballen, real estate broker; Phillip Torf, lawyer; Samuel Cohen and Samuel Cousens, insurance agents; the Barber shop and bootblack parlor on the first floor; and the Madewell Dress Company and the Manoa Curtain Company on the third floor.

GERMAN LLOYD LINE RESUMES OLD CALLS

Plymouth, Eng., Jan. 24.—The North German Lloyd Company will resume calls at Plymouth and Cherbourg in the New York-Bremen service with the sailing of the Stuttgart, due here early in February. There was a weekly express service before the war, but as the German emigration quota to the United States is exhausted until July 1, the new service for the present will only be monthly.

WOMAN HELD FOR "CATTLE RUSTLING"

Bakersfield, Cal., Jan. 23.—May Newcomb and Carl Arnold, charged with "cattle rustling," have been ordered to answer the charges in the Superior Court following preliminary examination before Justice Edward V. Jones. It is alleged that they stole a "large red cow" and altered the brand, Earl D. Sutherland made the complaint.

PLUCKY WOMAN EXPLORER IN BOSTON

Rosita Forbes, Who Braved the Mysterious Senussi Sect, at the Woman's City Club

Rosita Forbes, explorer extraordinary, whose adventures in Africa and Arabia have won her a world-wide reputation for courage and daring, is in Boston today, a guest at the Woman's City Club.

Mrs. Forbes, the wife of a British explorer, has crowded more adventure and thrills into the twenty-eight years of her life than befall a score of average men in a full lifetime. She is the only white woman who ever crossed the Sahara Desert and probed, at first hand, the mysteries of the Senussi, the little known Mohammedan sect whose political activities have been feared by European statesmen for years.

Braving death from countless enemies, as well as from hunger and thirst, the plucky woman made a journey safely and on her return lectured before the leading scientific societies of Europe.

Explorations in Arabia were little less exciting than those in Africa. She also spent six weeks as the guest of the Moroccan bandit, Raisuli.

Mrs. Forbes is now on a tour of the United States and came to Boston today from Springfield.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO TOWN HAS MONEY IN BANK

Sutton, Jan. 24.—According to the report of Town Treasurer Herbert L. Hall, the town having followed the pay-as-you-go policy several years, now has $8,652.52 in its strong box and only $2,760 in liabilities, which means the town is able to pay its bills and still be practically $6,000 to the good.

Why Every Person Should Make This INDICAN Test

THREE out of every four people in this country, if put under a chemical analysis, would show the presence of INDICAN, many doctors now believe.

INDICAN shows that your blood is clogged with toxic poisons due to constipation. Any day these may result in a severe breakdown and sickness, and often lead to rheumatism and heart and lung affections. This poison is deadly.

While most laxatives give only temporary relief from constipation, it has recently been found that one of our oldest and best known vegetable remedies, acts on "regulates" the stomach, liver and intestines quickly, but also drives the INDICAN away.

Make This Test: Have an analysis made of your secretions, and if the chemist reports the presence of INDICAN—or if you can "feel" how poisoned you are because of headaches, sallow complexion, no appetite and bad stomach—immediately start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills. Next, have another test made and see how the INDICAN is disappearing. With freedom from constipation, you will also enjoy a clear bright complexion free from pimples and blackheads; your appetite improves, weight approaches normal, you feel fit, in most cases.

Important: Carter's Little Liver Pills used for 47 years by millions of people all over the world is a purely vegetable preparation and contains no drugs of any nature. It therefore acts in a natural way and is non-habit forming. Money refunded if results are not satisfactory.

Where there is a pimply skin, bad stomach, coated tongue, foul breath we usually find INDICAN. Just as at you in the picture above.

Same person, after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills for only a few days—note the clear, normal specimen—FREE FROM ANY TRACE OF INDICAN.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

Almost every skin blemish and fault is fundamentally from this one cause

HOWEVER marred your skin may be with blackheads or blemishes, you may not be more than one short week away from a really radiant complexion.

Startling as this statement may seem, it is nevertheless true; and with thousands of women today the facts are being passed along from one to another.

It comes down to a simple truth about the skin which physicians will tell you is as the root of every skin blemish and fault.

The skin needs, not makeshifts, but something to release again its own normal health

Deep down in the under layers of your skin, far below the surface, there is going on day and night an important activity of which you are hardly conscious.

Tiny glands continually functioning —

—pores throwing off poisons

—capillaries rushing fresh blood in, and carrying off infection.

—here is a delicate balance of forces like the balance wheel of a fine watch. With healthy vigor and activity, comes a clear, clean complexion. Too much or too little stimulation, and there starts that long succession of blemishes and faults that women are constantly seeking to avoid.

Resinol Ointment also for more serious skin affections

Not only is Resinol Ointment used everywhere for clearing away minor skin blemishes—but its soothing, healing properties have for years been successful in relieving more stubborn skin affections. Rashes and eczema—often itching, unpleasant and embarrassing—will in many cases vanish in a few days. Thousands have wondered at the quickness of its action. Even a light application sinks deep into the pores, attacks the root of the disorder, and starts the skin again acting normally. Resinol is absolutely harmless. It will not irritate even the delicate texture of an infant's skin.

A method of daily care, based simply on the idea of keeping the skin functioning normally

To cleanse the pores of dust and germs, to gently restore the pulsing of the capillaries in the lower layers of the skin, to carry off infection, and then to stop new infection before it starts — thousands have learned to use Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment in the daily care of their skin.

If your complexion is not all you want it to be, begin today to use Resinol. Work gently into the pores a thick lather of Resinol Soap; then rinse off, and splash on a dash of cold water. Then, with special irritations, roughnesses, blemishes or rashes, apply a touch of Resinol Ointment. If possible, leave it on overnight. In the morning wash off again with Resinol Soap.

Within a week you will begin to notice the difference in your skin—a finer, softer texture—a ruddier glow, a clearing of the ugly little blemishes.

JUDGE TO WED AT 90 GIVES POINTERS ON LOVE

SAYSMAN IS NEVER TOO OLD

Former Boston Boy Finds Only Long Study of Women Gets Results

George Sawin started to learn about women in Boston away back before the Civil War.

Today, just shy of ninety, a judge in Elmhurst, Illinois, he is about to wed a girl of sixty-five. The judge has learned a lot about women on and off the bench since leaving Boston Latin, gentlemen, and profit by his wisdom born of vast experience.

Tucking his white beard into his vest and looking almost as kindly as he does when the constable brings in a city fellow for speeding, Judge Sawin made public the following epigrams that sum up his life's study of women:

NEVER TOO OLD.

"We're never too old to take a chance.

Women are funny things

You've got to handle 'em.

Find out what they don't like and then don't do those things.

Get a woman who'll be comfortable to live with.

Study 'em. It may take many years, but you'll learn something.

I've got to have a woman around, so I've got to get along with her.

After one marriage, and his years of research work, Judge Sawin has decided that love is most blind. Or, at least, his latest romance with Miss Artie Bell Mosher, sixty-five of South Bend, would point that way.

EXIT CATARACTS; ENTER LOVE.

Judge Sawin had a cataract on one eye. He went to a specialist in Niles, Mich. Miss Mosher, also near victim of a cataract, was in the waiting room. He sympathized with her. She sympathized with him. When they left, neither had cataracts, but both were in love.

In Elmhurst, to which town Judge Sawin moved in 1853, when it was known as "College Hill," he had erected his mansion there to Mrs. Laura Herbert. By a coincidence Miss Mosher is Mrs. Herbert's aunt and she met the judge again six months ago when she paid her niece a visit.

He proposed. She accepted. They will be married at the Church of Our Savior in Elmhurst, after which the bride will return to South Bend to carry out a contract which requires her to remain as buyer for a department store there until May 1. And, Judge Sawin observed, it all fits in very nicely, because Mrs. Herbert's lease also runs out on May 1, when the young couple can move in.

CAME FROM BOSTON.

"There'll be plenty of time later for honeymooning," he said.

Judge Sawin came from Boston in 1848. While studying law later in New Orleans he met two cousins. After his enlistment in the Union army in the Civil War, he marched with Sherman through Georgia and at Alexandria helped capture a Confederate fort. His two cousins were taken prisoners.

He is said to be one of the wealthiest citizens of Elmhurst, the lot for which he paid $4,200 years ago now being worth more than $50,000. He was the first master of Siloam Commandery, Knights Templar, of Oak Park, then numbering twenty-two members, and now 1,500.

"I don't want folks to think I'm foolish now, getting married again and upsetting my will, but I'm lone some," he said. "She's a young woman, but I think a man ought to be a little older, so I guess we'll get along."

TOOK HIM 70 YEARS TO KNOW WOMEN

After some 70 odd years studying the opposite sex off and on the bench, the judge confesses that he cannot get along without them. So he is going to marry again.

RADICALS FLAY LEWIS FOR USING 'STEAM ROLLER'

Bitter Fight Due Today at Annual Conventon of United Mine Workers

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 24 (A.P.)—Chafing under defeat, radical delegates returned to the United Mine Workers' convention today with the announced intention of continuing their fight against President John L. Lewis and the administration's conservative policies.

One of their spokesmen, sub-District Secretary John Watt of Springfield, Ill., said he or some other delegate would gain the floor and appeal to the convention against what he called the action of "steam roller" methods of Lewis.

Recognition of Russia in accord with the policies enunciated by Secretary of State Hughes, and approval of a National Labor party proposal, with the proviso that "we must not destroy any structure that now affords a semblance of protection until such time as a new structure can be built," had already been voted by the convention, thus disposing of two of the items for which the radicals had presented resolutions. The latter's resolutions provided for unqualified recognition of Soviet Russia and an unqualified endorsement of a Labor party.

They suffered a defeat in their failure to obtain a roll call on their proposal to reinstate deposed officials of District 26 of Nova Scotia, and again in failing to secure a hearing for Thomas Myerscough, a "progressive" leader of Pittsburgh expelled on charges similar to those brought against the Nova Scotia officials.

ROUGE ON LIPS BLOTS OUT ROMANCE

East Boston Girl Accuses Her Sweetheart of Hitting Her in Rage

Rouge and face powder ruined a budding romance in East Boston and caused a battle in the Maverick square lockup, it was disclosed in Police Reports suffered a beating and finally landed all of the principals with the exception in the East Boston District Court.

In the East Boston Court today appeared Antonio Contranno on a charge of beating his pretty sweetheart Florence "Tony" as he is sometimes called, lives with his parents at No 3 Marginal street North End. The girl lives at No 2 Union court, East Boston.

It was a tearful home that the quarrel started. They had Sunday night and powder on her lips and cheeks.

"If you don't quit putting so much of that stuff on your face I am through with you. You look good enough without so much of that," he told her.

Florence had narrowly escaped receiving notes from her admirer and replied that as far as she was concerned she was through with him.

The following evening, with some girl friends, Florence attended a dance at the Maverick square hall room. Contranno put in an appearance and when he saw the girl dancing with another fellow he became enraged and is said to have struck the girl. She was knocked out, she said, when the blow landed on her chin.

The case was continued a week after Contranno pleaded not guilty.

SWAMPSCOTT'S CHIEF GROGGY IN 2D ROUND

Mrs. Alice Brophy, Stopped as Rum-Runner, Scores in Court Action

Round two in the bout between Mrs. Alice Brophy, prosperous North Shore woman wife of William S. Brophy, retired millionaire shoe manufacturer and Chief of Police William A. Quinn of Swampscott ended in Judge Philip A. Ellis' court today, with Queen handing on the ropes, groggy and Mrs. Brophy still fresh and going strong.

The chief won the first round. With four of his men he stood Mrs. Brophy late one night, when she was driving home, alone from a card party on the North Shore.

The chief said he was looking for rum-runners. He chased Mrs. Brophy from her car, searched the vehicle and when he didn't find booze he demanded her registration card. Mrs. Brophy didn't have it. Chief's round.

Then Mrs. Brophy announced that she was going after the official hide of Swampscott's chief of police.

The chief is no piker, for he has so he contends, with a sum worth to Mrs. Brophy, to appear in court and explain the lack of proper credentials while driving a car.

Mrs. Brophy told the court that she has known the chief since child hood, that he kicked her when she was a bootlegger and that she will so testify when the fur is in general front of her eyes and in self-defense she mentioned that she forgot to let them her license when she was at home.

The court sided with Mrs. Brophy and dismissed the charge against her. Mrs. Brophy's round.

With her opponent groggy, the million dollar wife is preparing to deliver the knockout punch in the next round, which will be fought before the Swampscott shoe tycoon at their next meeting.

Mrs. Brophy is announced that she will file complaints against the chief in person of Will Dennis Linton for libel and foul play.

"EMBROIDERY SHEIK," WIDOW'S LOVE, TRAPPED

WALSKA SANG INCOGNITO IN BANKRUPT TROUPE

New York, Jan. 24—Ganna Walska, wife of Harold F. McCormick, Chicago millionaire, sang incognito with the Wagnerian Opera Company when that organization appeared in Albany, Detroit and New London, Ct., according to Theodore Latterman, stage manager of the opera company, who sailed today on the Thuringia.

Ganna Walska.

The Wagnerian Opera Company was recently declared bankrupt here.

Latterman said that Ganna Walska had been "the gold angel" of the company and that the reason it had been compelled to disband here was that there were insufficient subscriptions to keep the organization going.

Latterman admitted that Ganna Walska had advanced $100,000, but this, he said, "was a mere bagatelle in the presentation of opera, as it is the pastime of emperors and kings."

Hardships suffered by the principals was disclosed on the liner by the fact that only twelve of the principals took cabin accommodations. Four of the chorus were in the steerage, while sixteen, not having sufficient funds, signed on as members of the crew and will work their way across.

Speaking of Ganna Walska's incognito appearances, Latterman said she did not wish her name to be identified with her appearance as the countess in Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro."

"Madame Ganna Walska sang her Mozart role in a most excellent style," said Latterman. "Her talent is all right, only her genius must grow a little slow. She has a marvelous appearance, a fine personality and a great heart."

"But has she got a voice?" Latterman was asked.

"She was well applauded when she sang," was the reply.

BEAUTY WINS VERDICT AGAINST OIL MAGNATE

JURY GIVES FILM STAR $85,473

Madlaine Traverse Awarded Verdict in Suit Against Oil Magnate

New York, Jan. 24.—The jury which for several days listened to evidence before Supreme Court Justice Black in the suit brought by Madlaine Traverse, movie actress, against Herbert Lyon Smith, for $222,500, returned a verdict of $72,489 in her favor, with interest, Smith, the jury held, defaulted on a contract to feature Miss Traverse in the movies at $3,500 a week. The amount of the plaintiff's judgment including interest, is $85,473.

Smith is a wealthy coal and oil man with an interest in vaudeville and the movies. He is a member of an old Long Island family, with a country place between Lynbrook and Freeport.

GAVE UP HER JOB.

Miss Traverse alleged he induced her to give up a contract which she had with the Fox Films in July, 1920, by offering her $2,500 a week, with $1,000 a month allowance for expenses, to star in films produced by a corporation "which was to be organized and was to bear her name."

The defendant, also, according to Miss Traverse, agreed to give her $50,000 worth of stock in the new company, which he was to capitalize to the extent of $100,000.

"WOMEN UNREASONABLE."

Considering him a man of honor, Miss Traverse said she did not insist on a written agreement upon acceptance, but weeks passed with less than one week's salary paid her.

Isador Ginsburg, counsel for

Sheik's Wife

MRS. CATHERINE LANG.

Miss Traverse asked Smith if it was not a fact that his client continually complained of his procrastination.

"Well, did you ever see a woman yet that didn't complain?" parried Smith.

"Yes," shot back Ginsburg, "I know of one very estimable lady who does not [illegible] Philadelphia

GIVEN $100 TO DIVORCE HIS 'CRUEL' MATE

Gerhardt William Lang, with $100 which his widow friend gave him, went out to Reno to get a divorce, but before he could start action he was arrested and brought back to Boston by [illegible] inspectors.

This was disclosed today when Mrs. Edna C. Galbraith, a widow of No. 713 Dudley street, Roxbury, went on trial before Judge Flynn of a jury in Superior Court on the charge of having committed a statutory offence on May 17, 1923.

Lang, who has been known as "The Embroidery Sheik," was the chief witness against Mrs. Galbraith. He testified that he knew [illegible] had brought a suit for alienation against Mrs. Galbraith. ROB TAXI DRIVER AT POINT OF GUN

Two bandits, taken as "fares" by Baldwin Wasamuth, of No. 19 Fuller street, Dorchester, a taxicab driver for the Ashmont Garage, held up the driver, robbed him of $3 and then forced him, at the point of revolvers, to drive them to Pawtucket, R. I.

Wasamuth answered a call and drove his taxicab to No. 69 Capen street. Two men stepped from the shadows as he drew up in front of the address. They entered the car said they wanted to go to Norwood, and Wasamuth's adventure was on.

At Norwood the men drew revolvers, forced Wasamuth to raise his hands, and then appropriated his money. Threatening death if he uttered an outcry, they ordered the chauffeur to take them to Pawtucket.

Wasamuth passed several policemen, but the muzzles of the revolvers, thrust in the small of his back, kept him quiet. At Pawtucket the men jumped from the taxicab and disappeared. Wasamuth told his story to the Boston and Pawtucket police.

LEWIS AND TARAMASCHI IN TITLE MAT BATTLE TONIGHT

CHAMPION MUST BE AT HIS BEST TO WIN

By JACK CONWAY.

Strangler Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, will meet some serious opposition when he clashes with Angelo Taramaschi, Italian wrestling champion, in a finish bout, best two falls out of three, at the Old Howard's show at the Grand Opera House tonight. There is great interest in this contest and it is expected that a capacity crowd will on hand to witness the festivities

A. Taramaschi

Lewis won over Joe Alvarez, Panama champion, at the Grand Opera House last week. In that contest the champion proved he is still one of the wonders of the mat game. His famous headlock was what gave him the margin of victory.

Taramaschi, pride of the Italian mat devotees, has prepared himself carefully for tonight's contest and is sure to give Lewis a bitter battle for supremacy. The Italian wrestler has piled up a creditable array of victories since he came East from California. He feels sure his aggressiveness and tremendous strength will enable him to win the championship.

The winner of tonight's contest will be challenged by Stanley Stasiak, great polish wrestler, who is back on the job again after being on the injured list for three weeks.

Alvarez will also appear on tonight's card. He will be opposed by Alex Bes-shik, Syrian Tiger. Alvarez is not satisfied with the result of his recent contest with Lewis and would like to get another shot at the champion. He is also eager to try conclusions with Stasiak once more.

• • •

In the opening bout, Jack Albright the man with a thousand holds, will have Gustanno Silva as an opponent.

Our selections are Lewis, Alvarez and Albright.

Pal Reed, rugged Natick middleweight, is picked by many fans to win over Johnny Wilson, former world's middleweight champion, in their ten-round bout at the Armory A. A.'s big show at Mechanics Building on next Tuesday night. It will be Elks Night and all of the Brother Elks will be on hand to witness the contest.

Wilson has resumed training at Summit, N. J. and declares he will be in even better shape than he was against Harry Greb when he enters the ring against the Natick Parson. The peculiar thing about Wilson is that he is a greater card today than he was before his match with Harry. The fact Wilson could hold Greb almost even has boosted his ring stock. Greb has defeated Tony Gibbons, Bill Brennan and about everybody else whom he has met. Even Jack Dempsey, considered the greatest heavyweight champion since the days of John L. Sullivan, has passed up several tempting offers to clash with Reddy Mosen's sturdy protege.

The Wilson Greb bout attracted a gate of $50,000. This is the largest amount that has been taken in at an indoor boxing show in New York for a long time. As a result Tex Rickard is planning to re-match Wilson and Greb at a contest to be Summer. Of course if Wilson is to stage at one of the ball parks this get this match he must first win over Reed att he Tripie A. All of which is quite an an gagement.

The Armory Club announces reservations may now be secured for this contest

Hockey Lineup at Arena Tonight

Harvard	Maples
Walker, Lw.	r.w, Williams

HARVARD PLAYS THE MAPLES AT ARENA

The Maples will play against Harvard at the Arena tonight and Coach Ralph Winsor will know what to expect when his crimson men tackle Dale, for the game is as rugged as the Elis

Ted Crosby

The Crimson has an effective pass game. The Harvard team has a scoring punch. They lacked that in its early starts

Chick Williams' sensational wing play for the Maples is likely to bother Harvard. He shows amazing speed as he dashes across the rink to his wing and lifts a back handed snap at the net. It is a style of attack never before employed by a Boston player. It is hard to solve.

The moment Williams is kept on his right side he is in position for one of his deadly right hand shots on the net. He looks like the sensation of Boston hockey this season

The feature of Harvard's play aside from the pass game is the manner in which the defence has been tightened. It requires nifty work to get inside Capt. Ted Crosby and Phil Chase.

The game tonight should abound in fast and interesting hockey. So important do both Harvard and the Maples regard this match that they protested against the proposed Boston school game between Dorchester High and Boston College High. The big teams want to be assured of good ice. Both school teams will be the guests of the management, but will not play

HOW STRANGLER GETS 'EM

TRY TO GET AWAY FROM THES E HOLDS, SAYS CHAMPION LEWIS

AJAX CAMPBELL SUFFERS CUT BY SKATE

Alec (Ajax) Campbell, of the B. A. A. hockey team, was injured severely during a scrimmage after the first five minutes of play in the game between the B. A. A. team and the Maple A. A. at the Arena.

He was removed to the City Hospital suffering from a severe cut about the lower part of his body inflicted by a skate of one of the other players. He suffered great loss of blood before he reached the hospital, where stitches were taken.

Ajax Campbell

Campbell was given first aid treatment by Dr. E. F. Murphy.

OPERATE ON LARSEN FOR APPENDICITIS

"Wolf" Larsen underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Boston City Hospital. In spite of the impending operation, Larsen recently travelled ten hectic rounds with Ad Stone

Larsen complained before the bout but refused to disappoint the fans and kept his appointment with Stone. He was taken to the hospital three days ago

It is not expected that "Wolf" will be able to don the mitts again for three months.

Drawings for 500 and 5,000 Meter Skate Races

Chamonix, France, Jan. 24.—The drawings for the 500 and 5,0000-meter skating races of the Olympic games, scheduled for Saturday, have been held in the hope that cold weather will set in and the games can be started.

In the 500-meter event Joe Moore, New York, will meet Eric Blomberg, Sweden; Harry Kaskey, Chicago, will meet Merced Moens, Belgium; William Steinmetz, Chicago, will meet Oscar Olsen, Norway, as his opponent, and Charles Jewtraw, Lake Placid, will meet Charles Gorman, Canada.

In the 5,000-meter event, Steinmetz will meet Burmeister of Esthenia; Jewtraw will meet Harold Strom, Norway; Richard Donovan, Saranac Lake, will meet Dazebrook, Belgium and Valentine Dalin, Saranac Lake, will meet Julius Skutnabb of Finland.

KOPPISCH BACK IN SPRINT FORM

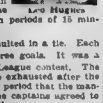
New York, Jan. 24.—Walter Koppisch, all-around Columbia athletic star, will be unable to resume track competition until the outdoor season. The broken arm he sustained on the gridiron against Dartmouth has mended slowly and forced cancellation of his indoor training program.

Walter Koppisch

Koppisch, a quarter-mile star, thus will be handicapped in his plan to try out for the Olympic team, but hopes to begin his preparatory campaign in April.

OVERTIME GAME ENDS IN TIE AT 3-3

Those who attended the hockey game between the B. A. A. and Maple A. A. teams at the Arena witnessed a game that broke the record for time In all 35 minutes were played There were three four overtime periods of ten minutes each in addition to the three regulation periods of 15 minutes each.



Leo Hughes

The game resulted in a tie. Each team scored three goals. It was a United States League contest. The players were so exhausted after the fourth overtime period that the management and the captains agreed to let the tie stand.

It was a hot battle from start to finish. Ajax Campbell suffered a bad cut on his thigh and Leo Hughes, who played a star game for the Maples was knocked unconscious.

The summary:

BOSTON A. A.		MAPLE A. A.
Morrissey	rw	Dunn
Stubbs (Capt.)	c	Hughes
Harrington	lw	Mallonald
Gorman	r	Kaplan
	c	Morrison
Forsht	rw	Williams

EAGLE FIVE TO PLAY LOWELL TEXTILE

Boston College's success on the courts this year may be attributed to the fact that the first team boasts of the presence of three basketball captains.

Melley (Bill).

Bill Melley, Ed Murphy and Jim Hickey are veterans of four, three and two years experience, and have in turn been honored with the captaincy of the basket tossers.

Melley, end on the football team, and perennial defenceman in basketball, is playing his last year for the Eagle. He played on the B. C. High quintet, and was captain in his senior year. Bill is president of the Boston College Student Athletic Board.

Ed Murphy, a junior, is known also from his fondness to lead the Eagle harriers cross-country. He was captain of the long distance pack last Fall. "Murph" plays centre, and has shown the opposing whistle waiters that he has an arm as long as any.

Hickey led the tossers in his sophomore year. "Jim" was captain of the Natick High basket ball team two years ago, and plays the same starting game today in the forward rank as he did then.

The presence of such a gathering on the regular quintet is enough to throw a scare into any opposing combination. At least the trick has worked in the last four victories against Pittsburg, Maine, Portland and Trinity, all of whom have fallen before the Eagle tornado.

This week end the B. C. squad, which has no home-grounds, takes a jaunt to Lowell where they will attempt to repeat their victory of last year over the Textile school.

Lowell Textile has for three years been making the game with Boston College an objective. The loom-men always have been well represented on the court, and intend to put up as stiff an opposition as last winter when the game went into overtime.

Saturday's game is the first of a two game series.

'CASEYS' MATCH TWO SPEEDY TEAMS

Two of the strongest distance relay teams in intercollegiate circles will clash in the 720-yard run at the Knights of Columbus meet at Mechanics Building Saturday night, when Georgetown will race Harvard.

The Georgetown team is composed of Jack Holden, former University of Pennsylvania runner; Jack Geghan, of two years experience; Georgy Marsters, national junior A. U. U. half-mile champion, and Eddie Brooks, former Medford High star.

The team is well-balanced and exceptionally fast. The runners are all experienced. Geghan has been a letter man at Georgetown for two years, and always has managed to negotiate the half-mile inside of two minutes

The team which Harvard will pit against the Blue and Gray has not been selected. Coach Farrell has held trials, but to no avail. The men are all so good he says, that he's stuck to make any choice.

A Prospective Harvard line-up is Semple Ulrey, Bob Allen, former Exeter flyer; Louis Kane and Byron Cutcheons.

The Georgetown team which will run in the Catholic one mile championship is Andy Gaffney, Jack Sullivan, Charles Burgess and Paul Herlihy of Lynn.

FATHER MATS SAY A WORD TO ST. MARY'S

The Father Mats of Lynn, who have won twelve straight games this season and have yet to lose one, wish to make a statement in regard to the challenge that the St. Mary's team made to the Joyce Bros. A. A. team for the championship of Lynn. The Father Mats have made a better record this year than the St. Mary's team and wish to let them know that they should be included in such a series.

The Father Mats will take on the St. Mary's in a series of three games, the winner to play the Joyce Bros. to decide the real champion. If this is not satisfactory they will agree to any terms that the St. Mary's wish to dictate.

Of the two teams the Father Mats have had the strongest opposition and has come out on top in every game, while St. Mary's have been defeated.

The Mats made such a hit in Salem that they have been asked to return, and on Wednesday of next week they go to Newburyport, while on Friday they play at Lasters Hall, Lynn, with some strong team to be selected.

Barney Google, at 4 to 5, Romps in a Winner

New Orleans, Jan. 24.—When Little Sunshine pulled the blanket off Barney Google, before the first race at the Fair Grounds it was generally remarked that the baby race horse looked speedier even than Spark Plug.

A few minutes later Barney Google loped carelessly under the wire after taking 16 seconds to cover three furlongs.

His name gave the gamsters a hunch and they put up real money, forcing him to 4 to 5.

HEARST TROPHY SHOOT NATION'S GREATEST CONTEST

321 TEAMS OUT FOR HONOR

By LIEUT. JESS KRUGER, R.O.T.C.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—The William Randolph Hearst trophy shoot for 1924 is to be the nation's greatest inter-school contest. When the time limit for the acceptance of entries closed on January 15, Major-General Harry C. Hale, commanding officer of the Sixth Corps area, Chicago, under whose direction the competition has been conducted, reported that the total number of teams in each of the three classifications of the contest is as follows.

UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES
(Seniors) 143 teams in ninety-six institutions.

HIGH SCHOOLS
(Juniors) 130 teams in sixty-two cities and towns.

MILITARY ACADEMIES
Forty-six teams in thirty-seven institutions.

Every section of the country with the exception of three States—New Mexico, Maine and Arkansas, is represented.

Teams were not organized in the three States named, because of lack of facilities for the competition in their R. O. T. C. units Honolulu and other cities in the Hawaiian group are represented by four teams. Eight institutions sending their entries had to be ruled out because of arriving too late or not qualifying as a recognized reserve officers training corps unit.

California takes the lead among States with the number of teams in all three classifications entered.

Five universities and colleges, eight high school districts and two military academies are shooting for the championship. Two sons of Mr. Hearst are officially entered as members of the Hitchcock military academy teams of San Rafael, California.

Chicago takes the honor of having the largest number of teams in the junior division—seventeen squads having been submitted to represent twelve high schools.

The trophies being shot for are perpetual, it being necessary for an institution to win the championship for three consecutive times in order to permanently retain it. While the Ogden (Utah) High School has won the honor twice and will earn the right to keep it should they repeat their victory this year, the university and colleges and military academies are competing for the first time for the trophy.

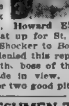
Seven men constitute each team, the marks of the best five to be counted for the championship. Gold medals will be awarded to the champion individual gold medals to the best marksmen in each of the three sections, regardless of his team standing. All targets sent out are official and the marks submitted must be verified by the professor of military instruction and the regular army instructor in each school.

The schooling must be completed and targets in the hands of Colonel Robert H. Tilman, Sixth Corps area, who has been named by General Hall as referee, by April 15.

QUINN SAYS NO SHOCKER FOR EHMKE

Reports that a trade was impending which would send Ehmke and another player to St Louis in exchange for Urban Shocker are denied by President "Bob" Quinn of the Red Sox

"Nothing of the sort," he [illegible].



"When I went West to help straighten out the Shocker tangle, I announced that I had no interest in the pitcher. I'd look fine, wouldn't I, to straighten that up for St. Louis and then snare Shocker to Boston?"

Howard Ehmke

While Quinn denied this report, it is thought that the boss of the Sox has another trade in view. He is on the lookout for two good pitchers.

MONDT ASSERTS HIS HOLD IS REAL THING

Just as Joe Stecker specializes in the "scissors-hold," and Strangler Lewis the headlock, so "Toots" Mondt has perfected a hold which he tells Promoter George V. Tuohey is the "jack knife scissors," by means of which he has walked through all opposition on his climb to the top of the wrestling ladder.

Geo. V. Tuohey

The sorrel-topped Colorado cowboy believes this hold more effective than Stecker's scissors or Lewis' headlock, and intends to use it when he meets Paul Zanovich, the Lithuanian star, in their match in Mechanics Building next Wednesday night.

Zanovich has his own pet hold, as Stanley Zbyszko found out in their two-hour match, but the big Lithuanian does not tell how he applies it. In fact, he says he may need it badly against Mondt.

Zanovich believes, in view of his work against the elder Zbyszko, that he will win over the Colorado star, although he holds no illusions as to the size of the task ahead of him.

BOYS RIOT AS FIVES WAGE BATTLE

Newark, N. J., Jan. 24.—A small sized riot at a basketball game here in which the principal of a local high school was set upon by a gang of youths ended with the arrest of three sixteen-year-old boys after police reserves had been summoned.

The game between teams representing Central High School of this city and Battin High School of Elizabeth was in full progress when a group of boys took exception to the referee's decision. The gang crowded about him, and when William Wiener, principal of Central, attempted to quell the disturbance, he was set upon.

My Favorite Punch

By JOHNNY DUNDEE

A left hook has proven to be my most valuable punch. I learned long ago that it is rather a tough job for a fighter to get his chin out of the way of a left hook. So I began perfecting my left hand to a point where I could hook it to the jaw of my ring enemy with fair precision and a lot of power.

The result has been rather obvious in ring history.

Johnny Dundee

That left hand of mine, sometimes jabbing, most often hooking, has won one fight for me, and another, and another and countless others. That left hook, if it did not knock out my man, eventually stunned and jarred him to a point where he didn't care much about any fierce aggressiveness.

By the use of my left hook I have been able to take a lot of the fight out of the other fellow. When that happened, all I needed to do was to keep crowding in on him and firing a volley of punches.

The other man either would go down and stay there, or, if he was on his feet at the end, it was reasonably certain to be so far in front on points that there wasn't much doubt as to who had won the battle.

Because I have a rather well-developed left hand, which can hook in effective fashion, I possess two world's championships at this time. If I didn't have a left hook of such kind, it is not merely certain that I would not be a dual champion, but I probably would have quit the prize ring long ago.

Rabbit Maranville Is Sure to Be Traded

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International Sports Editor.

New York, Jan. 24.—More or less immediate developments in the strange case of Rabbit Maranville, the non-refillable shortstop with whom the Pirates fain would part, are being anticipated by those who keep an index finger on the pulse of the major league affairs. It is said that Maranville may be sent to Boston with in a few days and passed on to the St. Louis Card oals in the deal virtually closed by the respective heads of the Cards and Braves last week.

This is supposed to be the National League's answer to the report from Detroit that Maranville would be sent West out of the Heydler circuit, claimed by the Tigers, placed on second base, help the club win its first pennant since 1909, and live very happy thereafter. It is a commendably ambitious plan, but several National League clubs are not in accord with it.

For one thing it is reported that the success of the Brave-Cardinal deal rests on the ability of the Boston club to turn Maranville over to St. Louis. Failing in this, it is altogether likely the Cards themselves would claim the player in the event of waivers being asked.

But even if the Rabbit did escape from the National league, which is highly improbable, the New York Yankees would not see him go to Detroit without a counter effort to land the young man. The Yanks apparently realise that, with Maranville on second base, the Tigers would form one of the most dangerous combinations in baseball and are prepared to act accordingly.

"If Maranville gets out of the National League, we will put in a claim for him," Edward G. Barrow, the Yanks' business manager, declared today. "The would mean that waivers would be withdrawn and bidding opened. WJ would bid pretty high for a man of Maranville's ability.

"In the event that we landed the Rabbit, he would be used as our regular second baseman and Ward moved over to shortstop, replacing Scott. However, this is merely speculating. I regard it as being very unlikely that Maranville ever will get as far as the American League, at least not for several seasons."

Two things are regarded as certainties, however. One of them is that Maranville will not remain in Pittsburgh, the other that he will not come to the Giants. Barney Dreyfus will contenance no deal for the Rabbit without a strict understanding that he is not to be passed on to John McGraw.

MOODY BATTLES WITH BOGASH ON FEB. 5

Frank Moody, the sensational Scotch middleweight, who has won 17 straight bouts since he arrived in this country last September, is matched to meet Louis Bogash of Bridgeport by the Commercial A. C. at the Mechanics Building, Feb. 5.

Lou Bogash

Six times since coming here Moody won by knockouts. Only two of his bouts went the distance.

Moody is said to be the best of the English middleweights now in this country. Ted Moore and Roland Todd, British stars, have appeared here and made an impressive showing. Moody, however, is regarded as the best of the three. For his first test here, he picks nothing soft as Louis Bogash's ring ability is well known to local fandom.

Moody is only twenty two years old, yet in spite of his youth, he has clashed with all the leading middleweights in Europe.

BASEBALL TILT ON BALDWIN PURCHASE

New York, Jan. 24.—Howard E. Baldwin, star pitcher of the Newark International League club, has become the centre of a new baseball controversy.

John McGraw

Baldwin's purchase from former owners of the Newark club was announced several days ago by the Giants, but Michael McTighe head of a syndicate which acquired recently the New Jersey club's franchise, denied the legality of that deal and declared the twirler had signed a 1924 contract to play with Newark.

Manager McGraw of the Giants, on the other hand, is confident that they have clear title to Baldwin.

In baseball circles it is believed ultimate settlement of the controversy may devolve upon Commissioner Landis. Precedent, however, it was pointed out, apparently favors the New Newark ownership, inasmuch as baseball powers have ruled previously in similar cases that players automatically were transferred when a franchise changed hands.

The Yellow Jackets will play the Boston Hockey Club Tuesday night.

In addition to the great Lionel Carmichan, Canada's stellar amateur athlete, Pittsburgh has Harold Cotter last year with the Aura Lees and the best wing man that played on the local team, Dick McCurry of the Toronto Argonauts; Alex McKinnon from the Sudbury Woodchoppers; and Fred White and Roy Worters from the Toronto Canoe Club.

Dick Carroll, Canada's famous hockey coach, is director of the Pittsburgh team.

Three will be the only appearances of the dashing Pittsburgh Yellow Jackets to this city unless of course they win the Western championship, and this isn't improbable.

BOK PLAN JUDGES MOSTLY LEAGUE ADVOCATES, WOMAN ADMITS

POLICY COMMITTEE MEMBER TOO SHARP FOR SENATORS

Washington, Jan. 24 (By Universal).—The trial of the League of Nations through the $100,000 Bok peace plan organization was clearly revealed when Miss Esther Everett Lape, member in charge of the policy committee of the contest, testified before the Senate propaganda investigating committee.

Miss Lape will return next Tuesday, bringing with her financial and other records of the Bok contest. She will tell the committee just how the prize money was raised and what the effort to popularize it is costing. At least the committee hopes to obtain that information from her.

If Miss Lape adheres to the statement of Edward W. Bok, the promoter, that it is none of the Senate's business, the committee will go elsewhere for the information, calling Cornelius N. Bliss Jr., the treasurer, and the Curtis Publishing Co. of Philadelphia, the disbursing agency, to disclose the financial details.

CLEARED OF FIANCEE'S DEATH SAYS 'I'M THROUGH WITH WOMAN'

MYSTERY GIRL FIGURES IN CREASY'S SECOND TRIAL

By CORINNE RICH

New York, Jan. 23 (Universal).—"I don't understand women. I'm through with them now. I'm going into welfare work and give my services to the public."

With this avowal William M. Creasy bright-eyed for all his prison haggardness, stepped out into the sunshine.

After nearly fainting when a jury pronounced him not guilty of the murder of his sweetheart, Edith Lavoy, pretty school teacher of Freeport, L. I., in June, 1922, the young man, like a revived plant, prepared to face the world anew "Of course, I may fail in love again and even marry, but that will be a long time off, right now I d... to hear of a woman."

Wm. Creasy.

ed, refusing any information concerning a mysterious "Miss Veith," who figured in the trial.

"Before he goes into his welfare work, Billy is coming home with me and rest; I'll guarantee he won't have to take to a girl," said his father, a white haired man from Belleville, Ky., who sold his farm to finance his son's defence.

This was Creasy's second trial. He spent nine months in the death-house at Sing Sing awaiting execution after conviction of first degree murder following the death of Miss Lavoy. A new trial was granted when the prisoner's counsel claimed that false evidence had been introduced at the first.

REENACTS DEATH SCENE.

"I did not kill Edith," said Creasy. "My explanation on the stand was correct. I went calling and had fallen asleep on the sofa in her living room. I was awakened by the revolver shot that 'ended her life."

In court Creasy enacted the tragedy according to his version using the exact sofa, coverings, and pillows that had figured in the girl's last moments.

Creasy, a mechanic by trade and by no means the mental equal of his sweetheart, met Miss Lavoy through a matrimonial bureau. They exchanged letters and fell in love. The man visited the teacher in Freeport.

The State contended that Creasy shot Edith Lavoy when she spurned his attentions. The defense declared she killed herself in his presence because he told her he no longer cared for her.

"I don't understand women," Creasy repeated, quick and span in new clothes and ready to patch up his life.

"The verdict of guilty in the first trial didn't surprise me as much as Mrs. Mildred Sheldon did when she threw her arms around me and kissed me. Mrs. Sheldon, you know, was Edith's chum and the State's star witness.

"No, I simply don't understand women. And I'm going to keep away from them."

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair

35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Just stops falling out and dandruff disappears and a bottle of delightful, refreshing "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair becomes.

SAYS ONE TASTE OF HOOCH COST HIM $53

John W. McLean, No. 20 Taylor street, Watertown, became docile after taking a drink of hooch from a bottle proffered by a stranger he met at Market and North Beacon streets, Brighton. So he went unresistingly to the stock yards nearby and was relieved of $53 by his friend of the hooch and a confederate, he reported the robbery to the police.

TRIES TO SAVE MAN WHO CHEATED HIM

James Mazann of No. 40 North Beacon street, Allston, passed a pair of worthless checks on Benjamin Hushon, proprietor of the Allston Public Market, on Harvard street. HOW TO KEEP WELL

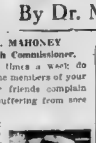
By Dr. Mahoney

DR. F. X. MAHONEY
Boston Health Commissioner.

How many times a week do you hear the members of your family or your friends complain that they are suffering from sore throats?

You hear it often enough to have sub-consciously gained the impression that a sore throat is nothing to get alarmed about—just something that you must expect and tolerate—like income taxes, for instance.



Dr. Mahoney.

Well, that popular method of regarding a sore throat is all wrong and it is the reason why despite the advances the medical profession has made, that the death rate from diphtheria, particularly among children, is still heavy.

A sore throat always contains the possibilities of diphtheria.

There is not a reason in the world why diphtheria should be fatal to anyone, and it would not be if a reputable physician were summoned when the symptoms of sore throat first appear.

DANGER IN SORE THROAT.

Remember, not every sore throat is a case of diphtheria, but also remember that it May be. If it is diphtheria, the physician will promptly administer anti-toxin, made from horses' blood. This will arrest the disease. If the anti-toxin is administered to a person who does not have the disease, it will make him immune for a period of at least six months.

Diphtheria is a disease caused by the growth in the human body of certain germs known as the Klebs-Loeffler bacilli. The disease is characterized by a peculiar local inflammation and by a general body poisoning. The disease generally is found in the nose and throat, but the germs may be found in the eyes, lungs or in wounds. It is the general poisoning of the entire body that makes diphtheria so dangerous.

The average adult is immune to the disease. That means that he carries about in his blood certain natural anti-toxines which act as an antidote to the diphtheria poison and which keep off the diphtheria germ from doing serious harm.

Most babies are also immune to the disease, but youngsters, from one year up are generally very susceptible to diphtheria.

A grown person who is immune to the disease may carry the germs about in his nose and throat without ever knowing it. Such a person, known as a "carrier," may spread the disease to those persons with whom he comes in contact and who are not immune.

MOST BABIES IMMUNE

Science has perfected a test, known as the Schick test, which may be applied to anyone and this test will tell whether or not a person is immune to diphtheria. However, it requires from four days to a week to complete the Schick test and when a person is suspected of having the disease, or has been exposed to it, the physicians as a rule administers anti-toxin at once to arrest the disease if it is already present or prevent the patient from getting it if he does not have it.

There is no method for the layman to tell whether or not his sore throat is caused by diphtheria germs or not. If it is diphtheria, the patient should be isolated at once and kept away from all other members of the family.

All dishes used in the sick room should be boiled for at least twenty minutes, and all persons from the room should be carefully sterilized and then burned. A person entering the sick room for any reason should wear a gown and should carefully wash his hands in soap and water and then in anti-septic solution upon leaving.

But the physician will tell you all about the rules to follow.

The point is that the patient's life can be saved if a physician is called promptly and his advice is followed.

CALL THE DOCTOR.

Dear Doctor: Can you tell me what to do for chronic bronchitis. Hive had some success with ... cure, but still seem to need as much. Can you tell me what to do for this cough? H. T.

Answer—The treatment which you have described suggests that you are under the care of a competent physician, and I would advise that you adhere to his advice and treatment in the matter.

Dear Doctor: Will you please tell me what, I can do for severe acidity of the stomach, etc?

MRS. M. F.

Answer—The symptoms which you describe may be due to several entirely different causes, some of which are serious. There is no way of determining the cause of your symptoms except by a personal examination which probably would include an examination of the contents of the stomach and possibly an x-ray examination of the whole digestive tract.

In answer to H. H. of Easthampton, I would recommend articles that Mrs. H. have a complete physical examination by a competent physician to whom she should not fail to tell of her dietary habits.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Rub on Good Old Musterole

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once. Rub good old Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief.

Colds are merely congestion. Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter-irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

As effective as the messy old mustard plaster, does the work without blister.

Just rub it on with your fingertips. You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 30c and 60c, in jars and tubes.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Men who survive the unusual very often are called cranks, eccentric, crazy.

Henry Ford has been called crazy a thousand times. Edison is often described as eccentric. Carnegie had what were regarded as fantastic notions about wealth. John D. Rockefeller used to have all kinds of epithets hurled at him. Going farther back, Socrates was condemned to drink the hemlock cup—and then had statues raised in his honor. Christ himself was in the eyes of most of His contemporaries hopelessly eccentric.

We never I used to waste time fretting about June 15 Mayfair, the upbuilder of the National Cash Register Company and the initiator of many reforms in the handling of business and workers, I invariably received letters telling me that he was a crank or that he was eccentric or that he was a crazy reformer. He was eccentric. He was a reformer.

But he not only developed in extraordinary successful industrial enterprise, but conceived and adopted methods of handling workers which have since come to be recognized as essential to the proper running of large concerns. Mr. Patterson did his own thinking and went on his own way, regardless of criticism and condemnation.

There has just been published an intensely inspiring volume, "John H. Patterson: Pioneer in Industrial welfare," written by Samuel Crowther. While reading it, I marked passages which I thought might not only interest but help readers of this column. Here are some of the late Mr. Patterson's pronouncements:

"If there ever comes a time in this business when courage will not be necessary, when it will not be necessary for us to fight against obstacles, I shall know it is time to put up the shutters, turn off the power, and draw the fires for all times."

"It has always been noted that each register salesman was born, not made. That is the bubble that we have pricked. I find that each register salesman we secure I would rather take a new man and train him into the business than to take an experienced salesman. I get men and try to teach him new things. It is the men who are willing to accept information and profit by it that will get ahead in this world; therefore, I think that better salesmen can be made of new, green men, who are willing and energetic, than can be made of men who have had some experience in this business."

"My idea of successful business is this: Will not only every known want of your customers, but also have in ready reserve that which you calculate they are going to need next year or the year after. That is, do not merely keep up with the market, but preferably a few paces ahead in what you are actually offering and about a mile ahead in your reserve offerings.

• • •

"We work on the plan 'The secret of success in life is for a man to be ready for opportunity when it comes.'

"'We are a part of all we have met.'

"'Improved machinery makes men dear and their product cheap.'

"Enthusiasm is the biggest asset in business. It is the one thing that you have to work eternally to keep up. The National Cash Register was built by the enthusiasm of the organization both in the shops and in the field. It is to the stimulation of enthusiasm that most of our work is directed, for it is impossible for anyone not to do his work well if he takes a joy in its doing. I have found that a man lacks enthusiasm when:

"1—He has not an appreciation of the work he is doing.

"2—He is out of sympathy with what you are doing.

"3—He lacks knowledge of the business and the motives of the officers.

"4—He is not in harmony with his surroundings.

"5—He does not realize his obligations."

"To do good is my religion."

• • •

America would be a better country for wage earners and for all of us if more of our employers were made of the stamp of John H. Patterson.

United Fruit Sells at New Record Top in a Strong New York Market

CORN PRODUCTS AT RECORD PRICE

United Fruit sold at a new record top for all time in a strong market on the New York Stock Exchange today. Up 4 at 191, this price represented the equivalent of $252 for the old stock.

Corn Products was up 2¾ at 127¾, the highest price at which it has ever sold.

Stock prices were churned about at the opening of the market, but the main tendency continued up-ward.

South Porto Rican Sugar advanced 2½ on resumption of dividends and early resumption of dividends on 7 American Hide & Leather preferred moved up 1

FRUIT'S REPORT.

United Fruit has issued its annual report for the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1923, showing balance available for the $100,000,000 common after interest and annual taxes of $13,692,150 equal to $23.07 a share. This compares with $18,651,318 in 1922 $16,976,761 in 1921, $29,068,307 in 1920, and $20,121,517 for the fifteen months ended Dec. 31, 1919.

South Porto Rico Sugar is planning to handle a common dividend early this year. Street expects annual rate of possibly $4 a share. This would be more than justified by present earnings and prospects.

Rate of $8 on present common would equal $16 a share on $5,000,000 stock outstanding prior to stock dividend of 100 per cent., paid Aug. 1, 1923. South Porto Rico had been able to pay $20 annually on its old capital from Jan. 1, 1916, to July 1, 1920, together with $20 extra cash and 13 per cent. stock on July 1, 1916.

SPECIALTIES BUOYANT.

Buoyancy of high priced industrial specialties featured forenoon dealings, gains of 1 to 3 points being recorded by American Can, Gulf States Steel, Pan-American B, Maxwell, Kelly-Springfield Motor, Studebaker Warner, Mack Truck, Fisk Rubber first preferred and Auto-n Nickel preferred.

Consolidated Gas and American Sugar Refining were heavy.

Mining Stocks Are Higher in Boston

Boston Stock Exchange today took its cue from Wall Street and marked up quotations all around.

Half-point advances came in no fewer than five mining stocks, viz., Arizona Commercial at 3, Calumet & Arizona at 45½, Calumet & Hecla at 135%, Copper Range at 25 and Isle Royale at 13. Quincy Mining gained a dollar to 22.

United Fruit moved up from 187 to 193¾, in response to the excellent statement which you calculate to be disclosing per share profits in excess of $23

Lowell Electric

Stockholders of Lowell Electric Light Corporation, at annual meeting, Feb. 5, will vote on question of approving an issue of 4,615 additional shares of stock.

MARLAND OIL TO SELL BIG BLOCK

Stockholders of the Marland Oil Company voted to amend company's charter to permit the sale of seventy hundred thousand shares of stock to a banking syndicate. The sale is understood to be for the account of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Approximately 200,000 shares will be sold at this time at a price understood to be about $32 a share. An option will be given the syndicate on several hundred thousand additional shares.

Net earnings of the company for 1923 are estimated at $2,340,000.

WHY CANADA LOAN IS SOLD AT HOME

Award of the Canadian National Railways 50,000,000 bond issue to a Canadian syndicate, according to New York bankers, was influenced to some extent by a desire to avoid a rise in sterling rate fluctuations over a long period which would have attended sale of the loan in this country.

Liberty Bond Prices

Liberty Bond prices were: 3½s, $99.31⅝; first 4¼s, $98.23⅛; second 4¼s, $98.43⅛; third 4¼s, $99.24⅝; fourth 4½s, $100.09⅜.

STELLA DALLAS — By Olive Higgins Prouty

New and Intensely Interesting Serial of a Marriage of an Educated Man to an Untutored Woman

"I shall not be here when you get back, Laurel"

What Is the Effect Upon the Two, and Especially Upon Their Strange and Beautiful Child Laurel?

HOW THE STORY STARTED

Stella Dallas and her husband, Stephen, do not live together. They have a daughter, thirteen years old, named Laurel, who stays most of the year with the mother. They visit a Summer hotel in New England, where the other guests look askance at the painted, overdressed elder woman. The time has come for Laurel to visit her father in New York. He meets her at the station and takes her to a hotel. She goes to visit Mrs. Morrison. The story now goes back to the marriage of Stephen and Stella at Millhampton. Stella starts a flirtation with Alfred Munn. The leading women of the town begin to drop her. Stephen, deciding he can never go back to her, starts a divorce suit. The story then goes back to Mrs. Morrison's marriage to her aged millionaire suitor. The latter dies and Stephen confesses his love to the widow. Stella and Laurel get in with a society set at a Summer hotel and Laurel goes canoeing with Richard Grosvenor. Laurel overhears remarks about her mother and they leave the hotel. Stella has a plan.

By OLIVE HIGGINS PROUTY

Author of "Bobbie, General Manager," "The Fifth Wheel," "The Star in the Window," Etc.

SHE had a savings bank account amounting to over a thousand dollars. That wasn't to be sneezed at. Last time she had seen Ed, it looked to her as if he hadn't a bank account amounting to anything

"I'm sort of out of luck this year," he'd told her apologetically. The lining of his overcoat had been frayed and ragged round the cuffs. He had caught hell bowling at it.) "But I can still give you a good time, little girl, just the same, See?" He had opened his overcoat. She had caught a glimpse of a bottle shining.

He had patted it tenderly. "More where this came from, too," he had winked, "but say, it's awful expensive stuff now. Awful! Dearer'n a woman! Prohibition has played the devil and all with my capital, Stella." No, Ed might not scorn her little nest-egg.

She became more and more convinced he might not as she approached the vicinity of the address on the card. She had never been down this way before. Why, it was slums—regular slums! North Blank street was a narrow, rough-ly-cobbled sort of alley. There was a row of brick houses on each side, dilapidated and out of repair. There was a dark damp look to the alley and a dark damp smell, too, that reminded Stella of underground cellar stairs.

"What do you want of him?" the young woman demanded eyeing Stella with interest.

I want to see him on business."

"Ma," called the woman in a powerful voice. "Here's a lady wants to see Munn on busness."

"Ma" came to have a look at Stella, too. Both mother and daughter stared at Stella with hard suspicious eyes. It didn't make Stella flush. She didn't blame them. It did look funny.

"He ain't here any more," crisply "Ma" told Stella.

"Oh, ain't he?" groaned Stella.

"No, he ain't. This is a respectable place. This ain't no dope joint."

"Do you know where he has gone?"

"Nope."

"I do Ma. He's over at Lix Hallorah's. She was tellin' me 'bout him."

Eagerly Stella turned toward the younger woman. "Say, take me there, Take me there now, got to see him"

But she didn't see him. Not that day. Liz Halloran, a tall haggard old woman with no front teeth had told Stella, standing in her miserable black hole of a doorway like the opening into the cavity of a decayed tooth, it was, that he wasn't fit to be seen today. "He's just auin' there like dead today."

"How often does he get this way?" Stella inquired

"Oh off and on, I don't know! I don't keep track. Couldn get no use. That's what done it."

"When do you think I could see him?"

"Oh, he'll be rousin' up to morrow or the day after. He'll be real bright for a spell, too."

"I'll come day after tomorrow," said Stella.

An hour later, as Stella sat gazing out of the window of an electric car that was bearing her back to the apartment and Laurel, she kept saying to herself, grimly, dogg edly, "I can stand it. I was brought up as a pollard white nursery, thank God! I shan't mind it after awhile. I'm tough as tops. Anyhow it's better than jumping off the Harvard Bridge."

Ten days later, nonchalantly to Laur, Stella remarked one morning, "I shan't be here, most like, when you get back this afternoon, Laurel." Laurel was attending business college daily now. "I've got an invitation for luncheon and the matinee."

"An invitation! From whom, mother?"

Stella smiled. "I haven't got so many admirers. I guess you can guess."

The color flooded to Laurel's cheeks. "Mother, not Mr. Munn! You haven't accepted an invitation from Mr Munn?"

"I'd like to know why I haven't!"

"Knowing how I feel about him—how I dislike him."

"Gracious, Lollie! Honestly, it's funny! You act as if you were the mother, and I the child."

"Mother, you haven't been seeing that creature again, have you?"

"That creature! How you talk! Why, Laurel, Ed's a real nice man."

"I don't want to discuss him, mother. I don't want to hear up stand up for him. I don't see why you're bringing him up again. I thought we'd decided we'd drop him long ago."

"You mean you decided it. I never did. Mercy, I've got to have a little independence. With you away so much every day, Laurel, and nothing for me to do, I'd be a very foolish woman indeed, to allow a notion of yours to cheat me out of a little harmless entertainment."

Thus did Stella proceed. She mustn't marry Ed immediately, out of a clear sky, on top of the discussion with Laurel following her return from New York. Laurel might smell a rat. There must be no blundering this time. Ed must be slipped onto the field of action naturally, inadvertently.

Funny how things worked around. That which Ed had been years ago between herself and her husband, through carelessness and indifference, now, today, through diligence and effort, she must make him become again, between herself and her child—an issue, a sore point, a bone of contention. Not until then would the time be ripe to marry Ed. Steadily, unswervingly, Stella set herself to her task.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

NO one knows how much chagrin and humiliation and disappointments he brings me. I'd rather suffer for Jim than live in a paradise of kindness and consideration with any other man on earth.

Ann Lisle

When I took my vows at the altar I meant them with all my soul. "Till death us do part" was not a mumbled form of words to me. And unless Jim himself tells me that he wishes to go away and live his life apart from me, I can only cling to the love that is as much part of me as my eyes or my heart.

Suddenly I heard Virginia's words ringing out through the silence.

"I know you've never failed Jim in a business matter."

The implication became clear. In business I had stood by. But to Virginia, it seems that I've failed in other ways. And that failure comes out of my success. Jim would have preferred calamity to any part of his success coming through me. There's a twist in his nature that may be just inherently man. But the more success that comes to me, the more he's going to resent it—and me.

The probable great results of my connection with the Shipping Company won't appeal to Jim. Even now the friendship with the Stanley family displeases him.

I began to wonder if Jim would care for me in the old way if I were to cut myself off from everything but our home and his interests. I visioned myself relying entirely on his protection and pondered if this would throw me back into his heart by the road of chivalry.

Then I thought of Ruth Gregory, whose great success is part of her appeal to Jim. There's no blinking at the fact that Ruth Gregory's prominence in the world of art does not antagonize Jim. It fills him with pride. He likes to be seen with a woman who stands out for all that she does. Her achievements fire his imagination.

Suddenly I saw clearly that Ruth Gregory doesn't arouse Jim's sense of rivalry. She hasn't made her mark in the world where he is striving for a place. Jim can't be jealous of her success. It sets off his work by every contrast. It augments his position.

Jim would like to deck his wife with tributes of his own winning. The woman who is only his friend may shine in her own glory. My success will never be a tribute to him. It will always seem to Jim to detract from his own achievements. But my work has come to be part of me. And that part of me antagonizes Jim.

I got up and began to pace my office. I've never loved Jim so desperately. I've never longed more utterly for his love and understanding and for the strong clasp of his arms about me.

Yet suddenly I saw that the greatest rival I have for the gift of Jim's love is not Ruth Gregory

It isn't Ruth Gregory—it is my work that stands between Jim and me. My business is no longer dependent on me. It isn't a little weak "baby of a business" any more. It's a thriving, sturdy, well-established stripling of a business. And Betty knows how to handle it. There's no further obligation to stand by what I've started. There's only the desire.

And this desire seems to be costing me Jim.

Pineapple Whip

Take a cup of grated pineapple, heat with a cup of sugar and a cup of cold water and let simmer 10 or 15 minutes. Soak a tablespoon of gelatin in ½ cup of cold water while the above is cooking. Mix this with the hot pineapple on taking it from the stove fire and cool; then add the whites of 4 eggs beaten stiff and beat all till it begins to harden thick. Pour into a mold to harden. Serve with whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

Helen Rowland

NEXT to a flapper's conscience, there is nothing on earth harder than the callous spot in a man's heart, where it has just been burned by his latest love.

Alienation of a man's affections should be no more cause for collecting "damages" than upsetting an empty milk-bottle. Because as long as a man's affections are reciprocated on you, nobody can alienate them—Nobody can even PRY them away.

All a man asks of a woman is that she will be perfectly frank and honest with him, and yet never let him see her tears, never bother him with her complaints, never worry him with her little troubles, and never tell him the disagreeable truth about himself

A man can resist temptation forever—if it happens to be the temptation to kiss a woman he is just a little bit tired of kissing.

Fannie Hurst is right. To see each other only every other Tuesday evening would make marriage one long, fascinating love game. It's having to see each other every morning and all day Sunday that makes it seems so much like compulsory education.

* * *

What no husband can understand, when he is in one of those advice-giving moods, is that when you married him you were looking for adoration—not information.

A man never dreads the day when his boyish beauty will fade—because he knows that no matter how many chins or how little hair he may have, he can always find SOME woman to call him "My hero!"

* * *

Sometimes it looks as though the reason a man loves to live in the country "near to Nature," is so that he can miss the last train and be "detained" in the city.

* * *

Solomon loved a thousand women—and nobody ever heard of his getting tired of one of them. But then, it's a lot easier for a man to be true to a thousand women than it is to be true to just ONE

* * *

Marriage is like a parachute—by the time you have found out that it won't work there isn't enough left of you to matter.

WHAT THE STARS SAY

UNLUCK FOR TRAVEL.

A DAY of conflicting fortunes must be read from the prevailing planetary configurations. While there may be a stirring to liveliness and enterprise under the stimulus of the Solar sextile to Mars, yet the Saturn position has a tendency to "throw cold water" on the inciting energies. Under the latter aspect, it may be well to beware false friends and duplicity. This hostility, secretive and sinister, is emphasized by the Lunar conjunction with Neptune. The watchword is, "Beware."

This is an unlucky day for travel. Tomorrow will be an unlucky day to invest.

Hard to Figure

It is estimated that there are 4,000 fortune tellers in Paris. Nobody has ever been able to figure up the number of fortune hunters.

What's Wrong Here?

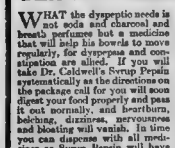
ANSWER TO WRONG HERE PROBLEM

Crackers, cheese straws, melba toast and pulled bread should be eaten in the same manner bread; i. e., broken before you eat it.



My Experience is that DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN Is just what you need

This Will Make Digestion Easy

WHAT the dyspeptic needs is not soda and charcoal and breath perfumer but a medicine that will help his bowels to move regularly, for dyspepsia and constipation are allied. If you will take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin systematically as the directions on the package call for you will soon digest your food properly and pass it out normally, and heartburn, belching, dizziness, nervousness and bloating will vanish. In time you can dispense with all medicines as Syrup Pepsin will have exercised the intestinal and stomach muscles so they act for themselves. Mr. Lewis F. Schultz of Reasnor, Ia., Mrs. Victor Knodler of 3625 Bank St., Louisville, Ky., and hosts of others will verify this.

World Acclaims Success

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the prescription of a well-known physician of that name who practised successfully for 47 years. It has been on the market thirty years and is today the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. Thousands of families have it in their medicine chest ready when any member shows signs of dyspepsia, constipation, torpid liver, sour stomach, biliousness, coated tongue, offensive breath, headaches and such ailments that indicate deranged stomach and bowels. Many serious diseases are prevented by this timely aid.

Formula Plainly Stated

Have no hesitancy giving Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to anyone young or old. It is a mild, gentle laxative free from narcotics. It will not cramp or gripe. The formula is on the package, a compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and simple aromatics. A bottle can be had at any drug store and averages less than a cent a dose. Economical for families and fully guaranteed. You will find it a great improvement in taste and action over castor oil, or "candy cathartics" made from coal-tar that cause skin disease, calomel that loosens the teeth, salts in water or powder that concentrate the blood and dry the skin.

RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

HOW yellow and how shining is this gold men covet so! How wearisome its mining, what risks to glimpse its glow! Turn back through history's pages and trace its gleaming trail, see how in bygone ages we find the self same tale. Gold always was a charmer and in those early days men, girding on their armor, fared forth to make a raise. Attired in hardware raiment, they chortled to their foes: "Come over with that payment, or else we'll come to blows!" Fierce pirates, out for treasure, threw peaceful chaps in swoons, then robbed them at their leisure of shining gold doubloons. Men left their homely labors and quit the plowshare cold, deserting friends and neighbors to join the quest for gold. They left the pleasant places, the fagin-nook of home, kind hearts and friendly faces for ice huts north of Nome. So, through the years it's lured them where grief and war unfold; but nothing yet has cured them of grasping after gold. Men might be blithe and jolly, untouched by care and cark, if they would leave the folly of hoarding yen and mark. War, terrible and bloody, might some day lose its hold if men would duly study to seek for love, not gold. If each man loved his labor and work was counted wealth, then cannon ball and sabre would ruin nobody's health. When men at last discover that gold is just a fraud, we'll start the whole works over while all the folks applaud.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

SCIENTISTS claim that within the next ten or fifteen years, babies will be able to talk the same day they're born. This will be great. Can you imagine a father arguing with his twenty-four-hour-old son as to what he's going to do when he grows up?

THE baby will want to be a pedestrian, his father will ask him to be a lawyer, his mother will beg him to be a minister, and then the battle will be on.

GIRL babies won't be two minutes old before they'll begin talking about the neighbors.

CAN you imagine how embarrassing it will be for mother to have her daughter, who's only a day old, ask for a cup of coffee.

STILL if a girl begins talking when she's only been on earth a few hours, she may not have so much to say later on.

WHENEVER there are twins in the family, they'll get together and gossip about the nurse.

THE maid won't dare to have a policeman friend for fear the babies will talk about it.

OF course if your baby's a son he won't care what you call him as long as you give him a pair of long pants.

PARENTS could guard against these arguments with their children by learning to speak French, Italian, German or Greek, but the trouble is you wouldn't know what language your baby was going to be born in.

ENJOY WHAT YOU HAVE AND DON'T ENVY THE OTHER FELLOW

So you are one of the kind, failing to enjoy what you have in your struggle to get more.

Do you fail to get comfort out of your inexpensive car because of your dissatisfaction and longing for one, the cost of which is out of your reach?

Is your home today looked upon as an anchorage till you can buy a better one?

Do you consider the fact you have merely as stepping stones to others higher in the social and financial scale?

If this is your view of life, your comfort do you get out of life?

You may never get that open drive car; you may never procure that better home; you may never mingle with the company you long for, and to which you aspire.

What then? Go all through life filled with unsatisfied cravings and reach the end without having had one bit of real enjoyment, all because you could not obtain what you most longed for?

The wise man or the wise woman enjoys the present and gets full measure of happiness and comfort, on the way.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Are bread-and-butter plates now fashionable?
2. When using bread-and-butter plates and jelly is passed, is the jelly put on these smaller plates?
3. If it is absolutely necessary to remove food from the mouth, is it done with a fork or fingers?
4. Is it proper to put one's napkin in one's lap as soon as one is seated?
5. Should the napkin lie in one's lap after the meal is finished and conversation taken up, or is it proper to place the napkin on the table as soon as eating is stopped?
6. Are all vegetable salads and creamed vegetables in side dishes eaten with the fork?
7. Is a fruit mixture served as dessert eaten with a salad fork?

E. F.

THE bread-and-butter plate is part of the luncheon service, but should not be used on the dinner-table. Butter is not served at a formal dinner.

2. Yes.

3. If food has been taken into your mouth you must swallow it, no matter how hot it is or how much you hate it. A dry bone or a pit or a stone is the only thing that can be taken from your mouth that has been put into it. The only way to take one of these out of your mouth is between your first finger and thumb.

4. Yes.

5. You put the napkin on the table after you have used the fingerbowl at the end of the meal.

6 Yes.

7. Yes, or with a spoon.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please tell me if it is proper for the bridesmaids to wear gloves at a five o'clock church wedding?

(2) Also what is the proper attire for a gentleman to wear?

A CONSTANT READER.

YES. (2) The correct attire for the gentleman at a wedding before six o'clock is the formal morning (cutaway) coat and dark gray striped trousers. The dark blue or black business suit is the only substitute, and that is, of course, a most informal one.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When preparing candied peel, remove the sugar from the syrup (it may be used for sweetening milk puddings) and shred the peel finely with a sharp knife; never cut it in thick chunks.

When boiling an old fowl or tough meat, add a pinch of soda to the water. Simmer gently and the meat will be tender.

To restore a black silk dress, sponge with hot water strained free from grounds. Iron when not quite dry. The coffee removes grease spots and gives a gloss to the silk.

• • •

A lump or two of sugar in very hot water is often sufficient for stiffening Valenciennes lace.

DEAD LANGUAGE

"It's getting rather cool in the front room, Henry—you'd better start the furnace. Take this three dollars and get a ton of coal; the dealer will have it sent up right away."

"Yes, my boy is getting along fine at the store. He runs the place all by himself. The boss is going to take him into the firm next year and give him a big chunk of the stock.

"Get your hats and coats on, everybody, and come down to the village square. An airplane is due to fly over the town hall at 6 o'clock, and the whole town will be there to see it."

INVENTOR OF UNDERGROUND RADIO

DR. JAMES HARRIS ROGERS

Dr. James Harris Rogers, inventor of the underground and undersea radio communication, has progressed rapidly and successfully with his experiments. He has established his laboratory at Hyattsville, Md., and from the bottom of a well, dug 15 feet into the ground, has proven conclusively that it is possible to transmit and to receive radio messages through earth and water as well as through the air. In this well Dr. Rogers has placed the ordinary antenna, loops and coils that put him in touch with the other side of the world. The well itself is encased in copper at the top and sides, thus shutting off the other waves and rendering it impossible for any messages to be received except through the earth. Dr. Rogers' laboratory is a myriad of wires and coils and loops by means of which he has been recording all the strange whisperings of the air.

ALL PROGRAMS FROM FOUR STATIONS

Few Others Could Be Heard; Interference Was Light, Very Little Code

Interference, with the exception of occasional harmonics on 300 meters, was noticeably light. Very little code came through. But neither did much broadcasting.

With the exception of WNAC, WGI, WJAR and KDKA, almost no radiophone programs could be heard. At 10 o'clock time signals from WBZ came through, with a terrific accompaniment of noise, so weakly that the peeps could hardly be distinguished.

Here's the log:

INTERFERENCE LOG—JAN. 23. (All interference logged on 450 meters unless otherwise specified.)

8:00 P. M.—On watch. Static fight. Conditions only fair. WNAC, WGI, WJAR and KDKA obtainable with good volume. Did not get any results whatever from New York stations. New York reception has been a failure for past week or so.

8:20—WBF, United Fruit Company shore station, Boston, calling ASR, British steamship H. C. Flood, on 600 meters.

8:20—Quiet.

8:30—Quiet.

8:40—Quiet.

8:45—WBF working on 600.

8:50—Quiet.

9:00—WBF calling GDWF, the United Fruit steamer S. Bruno, on 600 meters.

9:05—Quiet.

9:10—WBF's 300-meter harmonic breaks up a baritone solo from KDKA on 326 meters.

9:30—Quiet.

9:40—Quiet.

9:50—Quiet.

10:00—Quiet.

10:15—WSZR, the Shipping Board steamer West Calina, sends weather report to ZGW, the British steamer Scythian, on 450 meters.

10:20—Quiet.

10:25—Heard WTAM, Cleveland, but very fuzzy.

10:30—Quiet.

10:40—Quiet.

10:50—Quiet.

11:00—Quiet. Off watch.

AMATEURS TO RELAY COOLIDGE MESSAGE

Hartford, Jan. 24.—President Coolidge's message to the Rotarians of the world, which is to be broadcast by radio from the White House February 22, will be relayed the same evening by amateur radio operators, connected with the American Radio Relay League, to all rotary clubs in North America.

George L. Treadwell, secretary of the Rotary Club of Chicago, in the name of which organization the President will broadcast the message on the eve of Rotary's nineteenth anniversary, made the arrangements with F. H. Schnell, A. R. R. L. traffic manager. Mr. Treadwell left for Washington, where he will ask for the temporary removal of restrictions governing international amateur traffic on all messages which are not strictly private.

FARMERS DEPEND ON RADIO FOR CROPS

Washington, Jan. 24.—Radio is now an important factor in the production and marketing of agricultural crops, the Department of Agriculture announces. Greater use of the radio by farmers was revealed to the department through a special survey of 1,300 representative farmers just completed. More than 50 per cent. of the farmers reported they owned tube sets, employing three or more tubes.

About 50 per cent. of the farmers have home made radio sets, ranging from simple crystal detectors to tube sets. Most of the farmers said they were interested in weather and market reports.

WEAF TO BROADCAST Y. M. H. A. DINNER

Through a special installation at the Hotel Commodore, WEAF will make available to the radio audience the principal speeches at the testimonial dinner given to Mr. M. Maid win Fertig, president of the Y. M. H. A. of the Bronx next Thursday evening. This dinner is given for his successful completion of ten years' service as the office of president of the Y. M. H. A., and also in honor of the acquisition of the association's new home in that borough.

Radio Receiving Conditions Tonight

Boston radio fans will find radio receiving conditions relatively poor tonight. Boston is on the outer rim of a high pressure area. The principal broadcasting stations located in the West are in the low pressure area. The difference in pressure will render radio receiving conditions of the western stations in the Hub almost impossible.

Fans should encounter little difficulty in picking up stations in Western Pennsylvania, New York, Washington and possibly Montreal. All other stations will come in faintly.

BUILDERS MUST TAKE TIME ON HOME SETS

Accurate Assembly of Parts Is Essential to Success

By THE RADIATOR.

A radio part is, or rather should be, a delicately balanced instrument. It has accurate work to perform and must be performed just about right if we desire a really good set.

When you start out to buy the parts for a set go to the best radio store you know and demand the best apparatus. Ask the price after you have decided. Do not let the price stand in the way, and if you cannot afford a three-tube set at this price be content with a GOOD one-tube set at first and gradually add to it. It is the greatest economy in the long run.

GOOD CHEAP SET BETTER.

Far better to have a good one tube set than a cheap, makeshift three-tube set. You will find much more satisfaction in knowing that you have the best.

No matter how good the apparatus is, unless you have it accurately wired it will not work satisfactorily. Instead of taking two hours to build a set, take two days at it. Do not be in such a hurry to listen in, there are more programs coming, and if you can't wait it is better to have a good set later on than outright.

I saw a set this morning that was a beauty. The wiring was probably one of the finest examples of what not to do that I have ever seen. The builder had spent a lot of money on his bar, but had neglected to use it in the customary way. Instead the wires seemed to wander all over the inside of the panel, with a lump of solder here and there.

WIRING WAS HOPELESS.

The wire that ran from the tickler to the plate had three joints in it, in a space of seven or eight inches. The wires to the filaments and rheostats were bare of insulation, of course, and laid side by side so close together that the least movement would have caused a dead short circuit on the battery.

The wiring about the jacks were absolutely hopeless. The owner of this set will surely receive his share of some of these days, if he has not already done so.

The moral of all this lecture is to TAKE YOUR TIME.

The Listener

My friend, the Commuter, avers that the radio is the greatest humanizing influence that has come to his notice. In some fifteen years of riding on New Haven trains to and from Boston. Commuters who for years have been almost the most distant attitude toward their fellow-sufferers now look ahead eagerly toward the end of trip to swap experiences on their radio sets, he declares. Even a stranger is now welcomed into these cozy, sociable conversative cliques if he has the password. And the Commuter tells me he can look around the car, the tired coach I travel in and watch scores of ears prick up when the word "radio" is heard.

I notice that broadcast announcers countrywide are showing a tendency to be less daring and orchestra programs. They let number after number with their success gayly ambie on without identifying their station, apparently believing that it is enough to make the announcement when the over-worked musicians call a halt. It put the clock on one station last night and after fifteen minutes switched off without learning who it was. It's irritating to the "golfers" to say the least.

The station on the Drake Hotel, Chicago, WDAP, probably one of the best known DX stations hereabouts, is running a novel daily contest. Telegraph comments are piled on the floor, designated by States, and one drawn from each pile for a prize. Then the telegrams are all piled together and an additional "at large" prize drawn.

When do these amateur "spark shooters" sleep? At any hour of the day or night I can tune in on the ether waves and get a "dah-dah-dah-dah." They've never failed yet. Occasionally I have heard those with transmitters talking shop.

We hope that there will be more of the Jordan Hall recitals broadcast by the radio. Stores starting the fad of president of the Y. M. H. A., and also in honor of the acquisition of the association's new home in that borough.

LESS DRILLS NEEDED ON STANDARD PANEL

Since the adoption of quarter-inch shafts as a standard, and the exclusive use of 6-32 and 8-32 screws, the number of drills required to do a good panel job has been reduced. The drills you need are:

A quarter-inch drill for variometer, rheostats, potentiometer.

A 24 drill for 8-32 screws.

A 7-16 drill for jacks and variable condenser shafts.

A countersink of flat-headed screws.

Profiteered at Home

Editor Boston American:

Many of the soldier veterans listened in on the radio to the reception given to Senator Copeland, the self-elected guest of the Manufacturers' Association.

When the Senator spoke in favor of the Mellon plan he was roundly applauded; when he included in the remarks on the Mellon plan that the country could still afford to pay its just debt to the soldiers, those same business men greeted this remark with hisses and catcalls.

I wonder how many of those present at that dinner enlisted in order to sacrifice for their country. Thank you for your whole-hearted co-operation in favor of the boys, who left all behind them to fight for the likes of certain business men who stayed at home and profiteered, prospered and now selfishly forget.

JOHN MATTHEWS.

Value of Friendship

Editor Boston American:

In the midst of these senseless discussions regarding the modern flapper, mother-in-law, crime and prohibition, don't you think the value of true friendship is a far more important and interesting subject? Perhaps we may have but one or two true friends, but even one true friend is a priceless possession. Why not strive to gain that one friend for nothing, then we can dispense with the bought ones. Yet in place of those rare individuals who will not buy a ticket because they can hear the concert by radio for nothing, there are probably two or three who become such ardent music lovers because of the broadcasting that they will gladly buy tickets to see the artists themselves. Even in this Age of the Almighty Dollar, music is not so well loved that a little free education in music loving will come amiss.

Miss Bessie Marbury at 10. She hasn't changed much

Miss Elizabeth Marbury, known to 90 per cent. of the intelligent world, here and in Europe, has written her life's recollections and philosophies in a book, well worth while, which she calls "My Crystal Ball." It tells about everybody that amounts to anything, within reach of Miss Marbury's very keen eyes.

The picture here, showing Miss Marbury at the age of ten, and taken more than twenty years ago, is the most interesting document in the book. Those that know Miss Marbury now will recognize her perfectly in this picture and will be especially interested in the fact that at ten years of age she had written, in her small, keen face, almost everything you see there today. Even the quizzical, interesting quirk on the right side of the mouth is not lacking.

Young women and men who read Miss Marbury's book will learn from it many lessons worth while, including this lesson:

You cannot miss success with a combination of intelligence, hard work and courage.

However, this is written not only to advise you to read "My Crystal Ball," published by Boni & Liveright, in which Miss Marbury tells so many interesting things, but especially to advise you to study little faces and learn to see in them future power and character.

State Plans Fight on T. B.

Health Commissioner Kelley Has Laid Out Comprehensive Ten-Year Program to Cost $500,000

Dr. Eugene R. Kelley, Commissioner of Public Health, has laid out a ten-year program against tuberculosis in this State. It will require an expenditure of at least $500,000 and the examination of at least 200,000 school children. It will invoke the best methods of prevention.

We are very glad indeed to notice that both Governor Cox and Homer Loring, our economy expert, approve of this program. When these two economists back an expenditure THIS year, we may feel sure that the requirement is very great indeed.

Dr. Kelley points out the reason for examining the school children. There are many school children who have active or latent tuberculosis. In other words, there are many children who actually have tuberculosis, and there are other children whose condition is ready to welcome tuberculosis and in whom it is ready to erupt at any moment.

Malnutrition is another great cause of tuberculosis which an examination of the school children and the proper feeding of those children who are underfed and undernourished can greatly reduce and thus help to reduce the number of tuberculosis victims.

Dr. Kelley also predicts that this examination will so improve the health of the children that there will be a marked improvement in the scholarship of the backward child.

We hope that no one will attempt to put a brake upon a program so necessary and so beneficial.

Loyalty to Edwards

Among the documents offered in support of Colonel Major, whose military promotion is being so strenuously opposed by New England veterans, is a document which charges General Edwards with being a politician and with building up personal loyalty among his troops rather than discipline.

It is a puzzling charge. We imagine that the friendship which existed between General Edwards and his men was quite as puzzling and quite as confounding to some of General Edwards' enemies.

We had always supposed that one of the great objects of a commanding officer upon whom was not imposed the duty of strategy and military tactics was the building up of confidence and friendship between himself and his men. The German method of building up a great FEAR of an officer, we had supposed, was somewhat out of style since it did not give Germany the victory. The best example of the military worth of friendship between officer and man was found in the French Army, and we had supposed that the morale of the French Army was quite sufficient to justify the French method.

Our democracy indicates that that is the only method which could prevail in this country, so it is hardly a sound charge against General Edwards that he was able to make his soldiers like him.

LISTEN, WORLD! -:- By Elsie Robinson

THERE is a phrase which I have always detested—"the odor of sanctity." The odor of most of the sanctity I have met smelled to me like a mixture of moth balls, carbolic and formaldehyde. Antiseptic, but aggravating, as it were. It realizes the necessity of sanctity. It was obviously an exclusive and highly profitable condition, and didn't blame people for being complacent about it. Nevertheless I wish they wouldn't publish it under my nose quite so offensively. It made my own lack all too apparent. So, as I started to say, that phrase, "the odor of sanctity," awoke no music in my soul. Until this afternoon. And then——

This afternoon I took an old coat down to a certain Salvation Army Headquarters. It was in a cheap house in a poor part of town. The room was bare, but wonderfully clean. I have never seen a barer room nor a cleaner one. An old man was polishing the last window as I entered. He showed his work to me with pride. The poor, flawed glass shone like a segment of crystal. The rough pine floor was moist and redolent. The sunshine drew the fragrance from it like sap. All around the walls stood trees —pine and spruce and hemlock. Someone had donated his leftover Christmas stock. The shabby room was like a cleared space in the forest. There was such a fine tang in the air that I could almost see rough, ruddy hills between the reddish trunks. The cold air was spicy with the clean fresh aroma of green growth and the mellowness of old timber with a sound, sweet core.

For a moment my body enjoyed it without thinking as soul like wine!

I don't think I shall forget what I learned this afternoon. It has revised my whole viewpoint of sanctity. I realize that I have hitherto despised that delectable condition because it smelled largely of selfishness and self-righteousness. Doubtless it is grateful to the nostrils of the Saved to know they are saved, but that kind of odor of sanctity doesn't do much to sweeten the dingy sighways of life. But the kind, hopeful fragrance of that simple, garnished room—there truly was a sanctity that heals all who may come.

How fine it would be if we could radiate the fragrance of such clean and simple service! If we could make the odor of our sanctity as bracing as the wind among the pines, as homelike as warm sunshine on a fresh mopped floor—instead of smelling as if we'd laid ourselves away in camphor balls!

THE HELPING HAND

Letters Not Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls or Anonymous Letters. No Names Published.

Can You Help Her?

Editor Helping Hand:

Can you help me? I have been here in the hospital five months, and now will be going home in three weeks if nothing happens. I have had four operations and it has taken every cent we could get to keep me here, and now we owe so much I can't have anything for myself. I need bedding very much and clothes for myself, size 40. I would also appreciate anything for my girl thirteen and boy fifteen.

MRS. W. J. G.

Clothes for Large Family

Editor Helping Hand:

I would be glad to send the things on the enclosed list to anyone who needs them. For an infant, four shirts, four pairs of hose, three sweaters, one bonnet, three straight bands. For a child of two, one sweater, two little boys' suits, two pairs bedroom slippers, one bathrobe. For a child of three, twelve pairs of woolen hose, two pairs of shoes, size eight, one pair slippers, size eight. Odd items: One knitted cap, size two; bonnet for baby, six cotton shirts, size two.

MRS. J. B.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. A. C., who has a large family of children in need of clothes.

Owe Many Bills

Editor Helping Hand:

I have two babies seven months old and two and a half years old, both girls. I am nineteen years old. My husband is working but we owe a lot of bills, and it seems impossible to get things for my babies. I can sew well and will be glad to do sewing in return for the things for my babies. I woollen hose, two pairs of shoes, anything that size, but I don't care much as long as my babies have something to keep them warm.

MRS. H. M. Z.

Everything Made Use Of

Editor Helping Hand:

To all those brothers and sisters: I must write briefly, but want everyone to know how grateful I am and how much I appreciate even the postcards. They, too, help when things go wrong. One woman sent me five dollars. Another sent a smaller sum, but it was just as keenly appreciated. One sister sent me a fine baby carriage, so baby number ten will have a good bed. Others sent clothes, so that it will be comfy except for diapers. Some things came that the older children can use. One box had some soap and another a fruit cake. When I tell you that everything was needed and made use of, you will understand better how much we needed help. May God bless each of you and send you prosperity.

MRS. S. B. B.

Overcoat for Vet

Editor Helping Hand:

Kindly send me the address, preferably of an ex-service man, of some man who needs an overcoat, size 40.

M. B. C.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. E. M. B., whose husband needs an overcoat that size.

Suits for Boys

Editor Helping Hand:

I have on hand rompers and little suit for a boy two, suits for a boy five, a few dresses for a child of five, most of which will have to be mended, but which

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE PEOPLE OF THE MOON

By Dr. Frank Crane

SPEAKING of the moon, some interest has recently been excited in a theory proposed by Professor Pickering that vegetation exists on some of the floors of some of the lunar craters.

The mass of scientific opinion leans to the view that the moon is a completely dead world. But Professor Pickering's reputation as an astronomer is too high to permit of his observation being lightly dismissed.

Professor Pickering's theory is correct. This does not need proof, because we admit it. I have explained this in Current Opinion, as follows:

It is more than correct. For there is not only vegetation on the moon, but there is human life on the moon.

It may be interesting to have us tell you about this; and you may take our word for it that it is true. And if you deny that it is true we will deny your denial, and so there you are.

As a matter of fact, in the bottom of these craters there exists a stunted, half-savage form of human beings, the last remnants of a race which once peopled the whole surface of our satellite.

For you must know that the moon was once as pleasant a place as this planet. It was covered with vast forests, oceans, rivers, animals and people.

There were great cities there and they had railroads, telegraphs, flying machines, phonographs and suffragettes.

The moon, however, was divided into separate nations, each one of which was governed by a monarch who was declared by his subjects to be the Son of Heaven. And each nation was peopled by a race that considered itself superior to all other races.

They had no nonsense in the moon. Every nation was practical and had its Monroe Doctrine and was too clever to trust any other nation.

Of course, under these conditions they had wars periodically. With the growth of science these wars became more and more deadly, until finally a certain professor named Sniggleritz discovered a gas that would absolutely destroy everything; people, beasts, houses, crops—everything.

So they had a grand war finally and they all shot off their gases at each other and the result was that the entire surface of the moon, with the exception of a few crater holes, was reduced to rock and cinders.

What people remain are now gathered in these holes, and have degenerated into a sort of ape.

The moon is a shining example of the triumph of common sense, military preparedness and practical, sound statesmanship over the tomfool idealism that is now making so much trouble upon Tellus.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON SEEING THINGS

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

IT is not enough simply to accept certain facts of nature on the authority of science; we need to see them at work. Then only comes full satisfaction of understanding, giving a deep intellectual pleasure.

Consider, for instance, the daily rotation of the earth on its axis, and its yearly revolution around the sun. These are not merely things to be read about—they can be seen in operation, and the seeing of them is a delightful exercise of human intelligence. Many may be surprised by the statement that these great motions can be seen, but they are as visible as the movements of any of the smaller objects about us. To be sure, one must know how to look.

How can the rotation of the earth on its axis be seen. By looking at the sun. All seeing of motion is only watching the relative changes of place of objects. If you watch the sun apparently rising, you see the earth really turning over. You may teach yourself so vivid an appreciation of what you are seeing that a kind of qualm, or dizziness, affects you when you behold the great rim of the earth visibly dropping down into the gulf of space, leaving the sun standing to mark the rate of the fall. The horizon sweeps downward and coincidentally the straight line from your eye to the motionless sun rises in the sky.

Look at the sun again at noon, and see how it appears to travel rapidly westward, but let your reason correct this impression by showing you that the rotating earth is carrying you eastward, and the seeming motion of the sun is only a reversed image of your real movement. The sun is 93,000,000 miles away, and yet it appears to move westward fifteen degrees every hour. If that motion were real the sun's speed would be more than twenty-four million miles an hour! But to produce this appearance the earth's rotational speed (at the equator) is only a thousand miles an hour! The angular speed of the earth and of the seemingly-moving sun is, of course, the same.

To see the yearly motion of the earth as it travels around the sun is a somewhat more complicated undertaking, yet easy enough, too. You have only to watch the stars, which form a background extending all around the dome of the sky. This motion is relatively so slow that it could hardly produce a dizzying effect no matter how vividly you might visualize it. But it is extremely impressive when once perceived.

THREE-MINUTE TRIPS

ONCE A WHALING FLEET HOME

By Temple Manning

THE Island of Nantucket, once the home of a fleet of whaling ships that scoured the seven seas, is today a prosperous Summer resort, but it still preserves its quaint individuality, the town having changed little in appearance in a hundred years or so.

To reach Nantucket you must take a steamer at New Bedford or Woods Hole on the heel of Cape Cod, and steam out to sea for about three hours, touching at Martha's Vineyard, another interesting island, to discharge tourists.

A few yachts decorate the waters of the beautiful harbor of Nantucket town, but never a sign of a square rigger. New Bedford still sends a whaling ship to sea occasionally, but the industry has vanished from Nantucket. The streets of the town, with their ancient pavements, the Colonial brick houses with their cupolas, from which the wives watched for their husbands' returning ships, the offices of shipping firms still wearing the firm signs though the fleets operated from those offices have long since disappeared, all combine to push time back a century or so.

A visit to the historical societies will show you long rows of portraits of bearded captains of ships arrayed in high hats and frock coats. Do not assume that the old captains dressed up for their portraits. The tall hat and frock coat was the uniform of the captain of the old-time whaler. He paced the quarter-deck in his stovepipe hat as proudly as the modern captain of a liner wears his gold braided cap.

Siasconset, or "Sconset," is a modern resort, where actors and artists dwell in curious little frame shacks, refrain from all ostentation, and live the simple life. There are two golf courses at Sconset, one of them of thirty-six holes, said to be the finest in the country. A remarkable testimonial to the importance of the little colony which contents itself with such simple little dwellings but needs the finest possible golf courses.
